Diane Skutley (right) is the new secretary of ASB following a successful election January 23. Other candidates were Kathy Montague, left, and Sandy Shelton. The former secretary did not return to school and the constitution called for a special election in this case.

Construction Progresses

The new physical education center developing on Highline College's new 83-acre campus at 240th South.

The building house, which will be open next fall, will be one of the finest gyms in the state.

The building itself is a round structure with the biggest floor space of any Junior College gym in the state. The seating capacity will be 2,300 for basketball. There will be no partitions in the playing area.

There will be two cross courts for basketball, six volleyball courts, and ten badminton courts.

Besides sporting events, the fieldhouse will be used for such things as commencement and other large gatherings.

Members of the publicity and dance committees met at the home of Steve Lough, publicity chairman, to make decorations.

Dance and Show Set for Feb. 15

The International Club is planning a double event Saturday night, February 15: a talent show and a dance.

Family and friends are invited to attend the talent show from 7:15 to 8 p.m. in the multipurpose room of Glacier High School. Admission is 50c.

The talent show includes a German skit by Kathy Fisher assisted by Dorothy Bialek; Thailand dance by Somchai Pongsuech and Peter Kuchart; Judo and Karate by Chikalei Sakasaki; American Hillbilly; Recitations by Paul Alexander.

The dance is open to college students and their guests at 50c each. "The Sensations" will play from 8:00 p.m. to 12:30 a.m. Profits will go to help needy people overseas.

Workshop Plans Play

"Laura" is the next play to be produced by the Theatre Workshop affiliated with Highline College's evening program. Rosemary Gabel is directing.

Navy Officers Here On Thursday, Feb. 6

The United States Navy Air for Aviation information team will be on campus Thursday, February 6, to discuss information concerning the Navy officer programs.

A team of officers and enlisted men will be in the cafeteria the entire day to answer questions and give talks.

If, after talking to the Navy team, a student wishes to take a qualifying exam, he may take it in the afternoon from 2 to 6 p.m.

Re-Sale Cards Now Available

Mr. Leonard F. Johnson, in charge of the student book store, announced that those students wishing to sell back their books at the end of this quarter must fill-out cards of intention.

The resale value of books belonging to those students who filled-out cards of intention will be 50 per cent of the original purchase price. Those students who neglected to fill out a card of intention will receive only 40 per cent of the original purchase price of the book.

The rate of buy-back depends too on whether or not books will be used next quarter. If a book will not be used next quarter then the buy-back price will be that which is listed in the Follett College Book Company's Buying Guide.

Mr. Johnson said, too, that books must be sold within 48 hours of the end of the quarter in order that he can have time enough in which to order books for next quarter. "The number of cards of intention and the book store inventory is the basis upon which books are ordered," he said.

In the December 13 issue of the Thunder-Word, Paul Belben, A.S.B. president, wrote a letter to the editor in a strong retort to an editorial which appeared recently in the Thunder-Word, criticizing the lack of communications between the student government and the student body.

The editorial in question seemed to have made him rather angry, which I think was brought on more by guilty conscience than anything else.

Conditions have greatly improved, for at the new student orientation held January 5, students were invited a total of five times to attend any student government meetings. Mr. Belben has contended that the meetings were always open to the student body, but I have not heard this announced.

One of the biggest improvements in communications is the bulletin-reader board. It is a good idea, but we will have to wait yet to see its positive results.

The greatest lack yet of communication is with the night students. More than half attend their classes in the high school buildings where there is no bulletin posted. Since the student lounge closes at 8 p.m. their only access to the bulletin is the lunch room at their break. There is no report of the executive and activities council meetings available to them.

The night student is now the only one who has no chance of finding out what has happened at the daytime meetings. Any day student with time and energy can find out something of what he wants to know, for communications and announcements have vastly improved.

This editorial is in no way a criticism of any one person; it is only to ask for even better communications, which produce more active and interested students, which produce a better student government.

Let's Grow Up

Telephone threats are not at all funny, least of all bomb scares. For the third time in two years, the students of Glacier High School and Highline College were evacuated from their classrooms on January 28, at about 1:35 p.m.

Mr. Thomas Gordon, vice-principal of Glacier, explained what happened to this reporter: "I answered the phone at about 1:35 p.m. and heard a boy's voice. He said, 'Better get the students out of the building; there's a bomb in it.' I tried to ask questions, but he hung up. I immediately called the Sheriff and within three minutes two cars arrived." The remainder of the story is history.

Dr. M. A. Allan, president of Highline College, said, "I think it's fantastic that any person could be so misguided as to think of this as a joke." If one merely considers the cost of such an act, the figure runs into thousands of dollars. This only accounts for the number of man hours lost by the number of students out of class for 40 minutes, using the minimum wage of $1.25 per hour.

Such an act as this is childish, silly, immature, and really does not deserve the space devoted to it. But, I think it deserves this space to bring home to all of us how immature our actions often are. Donna Renard, Glacier High School Junior, put it well. She said, "I can't believe that anyone could be childish enough to do such a thing." Donna emphatically added, "It's just not a bit funny."

And it isn't a bit funny. In fact it's pathetic, and I have a great deal of sympathy and pity for whatever kind of person it is that could do such a thing. Teen-agers and young people everywhere suffer for acts as dumb as this.

Letter To Editor

To the Editor,

We, the members of the Service Club, challenge the members of all the clubs at Highline College to compete with us in a drive to acquire books to be sent overseas. These books will be sent to countries whose people have expressed the desire to learn the English language. All books will be accepted and sent to various organizations which will distribute them. I can think of no better way in which to acquaint foreign-speaking people with our language and with our way of life than with our outstanding literature.

Mrs. Davis Visits Canary Islands

Thanks to the jet age, no place is out of reach! Over the Christmas holidays, Mrs. Charlotte Davis, English instructor, visited the Canary Islands and Spain.

She and a group of students from Carlton and Wellsley Colleges made the trip because they were interested in the culture of the early Guanaches. The Guanaches were the ancient inhabitants of the Canary Islands. They were discussed in early Greek and Roman mythology. Homer, Hesiod, Plato, Herodotus, Plutarch, Hanno, the Carthaginian, and Ptolemy all discussed the Guanaches and the Canary Islands.

There are no longer any pure Guanaches on the islands, yet physical characteristics of the Guanaches can be seen in some of the present inhabitants of the islands.

The Guanaches were ignorant of navigation. They did not build boats, but swam to get from island to island.

The Canary Islands earned their name from the great number of dogs of enormous size who also occupied the islands. The word Canaria means the Island of Dogs.

There is a shortage of water but they have learned to tap the supply from deep within the rocks. Water is conveyed through miniature aqueducts similar to the ancient, massive Roman aqueducts.

She spent much of her time talking to people and visiting museums to learn more about the Guanaches.

Mrs. Davis and her companions spent Christmas day in the home of a Tenerife family whose daughter, Anita Fagunda, attends the University of Washington. The family took them sightseeing around the island of Tenerife.

On their return to the home, they enjoyed a dinner of roast kid. The kid still had tufts of hair on his ears and his hooves were still joined to his legs. This was in contrast to the Christmas dinner and festival later that night in the hotel where the party stayed.

On the islands, gift giving is held on January 6th, Epiphany. On this day, the religious fiesta of the Three Kings is held.

Are You the Kind of Person . . .

Are you the type of individual who is constantly blaming the lack of participation in activities on student leaders? The person who feels it is his sworn duty to blame someone for the lack of participation is either terribly narrow-minded, or he does not bother to find out why an activity has failed.

In my opinion, student leaders are the last people who should be blamed for these failures, but "you," the student, should be the first to be blamed.

When planning is begun on a particular activity (whether it is a dance, a party, or a cruise) the typical "Joe College" is very complacent, thinking that it is the responsibility of student officers to organize and promote successful activities. He does not realize that it is he, the student, who makes an activity a success or failure. However, the student who does not support the activity is usually the first to stab student leaders in the back.

So the next time you feel compelled to blame someone for the failure of an activity, stop and ask yourself whether or not you gave the activity your full support.

Larry Leonard

I. C. C. Decision Valid?

This is Highline College's first year as a member of the Inter-collegiate College Commission. The I.C.C. is the executive body of the Washington State Community College Student Government Association. This association is to benefit all colleges by the exchanging of ideas for the betterment of the schools.

Meetings are held at a different college once a quarter. At the first meeting one of the issues brought up and voted upon was the giving of a sportsmanship trophy. The motion specified that the selection of the recipient of the award would be up to the referees of the sporting events. The motion was passed. As it then stood, a sportsmanship trophy would be given and the referees would judge the participants on the basis of conduct, language, attitude, crowd participation and any other sportsmanlike qualities observed.

Suddenly Highline College's I.C.C. representative, Patty Springer, received notice of a change in the rules governing the Sportsmanship Trophy. It was suddenly decided that not the referees, but the coaches would judge the participating teams. Who decided the new ruling? There had been no meeting since the first one when the ruling was originated.

Do Not Enter! One Way!

I think that a student who is old enough and supposedly mature enough to attend college should be intelligent enough to read traffic signs. There are, in the student parking lot, signs which clearly state DO NOT ENTER and ONE WAY. These signs have been placed in our lot to perform a specific duty and to help control traffic congestion.

Students who disobey these signs are neither "smart" nor "funny"; they are, rather, breaking the law as well as causing students, who do go the right way, to pull over to the extreme sides of the road and either stop or back-up. The lot is too small and too pot-holed to have to worry about running into someone who is driving the wrong way. Let's have a little consideration as well as a little intelligence from our students.

by Ron Siegel, Sports Editor

This is a review of the past few basketball games. All of these games were conference games.

for Highline this season. The Thunderbirds clobbered the Indians 90-65.

Two school records were set in this game. Most points in a game, 90, and most rebounds, 58. Larry Chatman once again led the Thunderbirds in scoring with 24 points. Larry Andresen contributed a big 20 points to the Highline cause.

Ed James and Ed Erikson controlled the boards for Highline. Ed James pulled down 19 rebounds, one short of the school record. Ed Erikson had 14 rebounds.

The Thunderbirds' next encounter was with the always powerful Columbia Basin Hawks. This team is the best in the conference. The Hawks came out on top by a score of 84-50.

The Hawks were led in the scoring column by John Rucker, a jumping jack guard, with 27 points. Byron Beck dumped in 18 points. Bill Chatman was the high man for the Thunderbirds with 17 points.

High school basketball is starting down the trail to the state tournaments. This part will deal with the AA schools.

In the Metro League: Cleveland, Ingraham, West Seattle, and Ballard are the top four contenders.

From the West Central District: the Highline Pirates, Port Angeles Roughriders, Bothell Cougars, Auburn Trojans, and the Mercer Island Islanders as the front runners.

In the Southwest District it's the Eagles from Hudson's Bay, with another powerful team, with the Olympia Bears close behind. The Yakima Valley area is having another very close race again this year. The always powerful Richland Bombers and the Davis Pirates are tied for the top spot now.

The Spokane City League is a four team race this year. The four teams are: Lewis & Clark Tigers, Central Valley Bears, University Titans, and the John Rogers Pirates.

From nearby Tacoma the Lincoln Abes, with a strong defense, are leading the Tacoma City League.

This year's AA Tournament will be played in four weekend regional tournaments. The winners of these four regionals will play a two-day playoff for the coveted state title.

Shortcomings Of a T-Bird

by Bill Cooper

Our guards are swift, and tough and agile; our front men, too, are far from fragile. They all can pass, and shoot and run, then why aren't they winners when the game is done? "It's easy to see," said a shrewd spectator, "the other teams just stand up straighter."

Relf Is New Coach For Tennis

James A. Relf

James A. Relf, mathematics instructor at Highline College, has been named the college's tennis coach, according to Everett Woodward, chairman of Health and Physical Education.

In 1959 Mr. Relf was a member of the Geneva College tennis team that won the Western Pennsylvania conference championship. He received his BA from Geneva College and his MA from the University of Washington. He has had mathematics teaching experience in Seattle Public Schools and the University of Washington.

This will be Mr. Relf's first experience at coaching tennis. His playing experience came late in college as gymnastics held his interest while attending Roosevelt High School and his first two years at the University.

When he transferred as a junior to Geneva College he found the gymnastic facilities lacking, so he turned to tennis where he won top honors.

Teacher Has Article

Robert Briesmeister, English teacher at Highline College, is the author of an article in the current Word Study, a monthly publication of the Merriam Webster company.

The article is entitled, "Three Cheers for Neologisms."

Terry Acona makes a basket in the game with Everett.

Bowling League Needs Teams

Let's go bowling! The Intramural Bowling League at Highline College now has seven teams and needs three more teams to complete the league. If you are interested in bowling phone Gerry Julian at TA. 4-2930. Gerry is the secretary of the league and will be glad to explain the details to any interested students.

The league includes men and women students from the college. The balls will roll and the pins will fall on Fridays at 4 o'clock in the afternoon. The fun will take place at the Olympic Lanes on Des Moines Way.

The league will operate on the handicap system so every team and player will have an equal chance in winning the honors. The third year of intramural bowling started two weeks ago and the players are working on their handicaps for the season. There is still time to sign up.

Nursing Program Starts In 1964 At Our College

Approval of Highline College's plans for a professional nursing program was given Friday by the Washington State Board of Professional Nursing in Olympia according to Dr. Dave Story, director of technical education and community services. Coordinator for the program is Mrs. Rosmarie Brown of the Highline College faculty.

The new program leading to an Associate Degree will be introduced in the fall of 1964. Upon satisfactory completion of the program of studies, the student will be awarded the Associate Degree and will be eligible to take the Registered Nurse's Licensing Examination administered by the Washington State Board of Nursing.

The purpose of the associate degree nursing program is to prepare both men and women for careers as registered nurses. The program is carefully balanced between the nursing theory obtained in the classroom and the practical experience acquired through supervised clinical practice in hospitals, clinics, doctors' offices and nursing homes.

The range of the curriculum covers courses in the following subjects: fundamentals of nursing, maternal nursing, nursing of children, psychiatric nursing, medical and surgical nursing, nutrition. Also included are physical sciences, biological sciences, anatomy and physiology, psychology, political science, cultural anthropology, English, electives in humanities. The program will take approximately two years.

Information about the program is available according to Mrs. Brown; those interested may ask to be placed on the mailing list for an information brochure by contacting Mrs. Betty Somerville, faculty secretary, in room 403 or writing Mrs. Brown at the college.

The demand for registered nurses far exceeds the ability of local and national educational institutions to prepare them.

H. C. Summer Session Cancelled

On January 8, Dr. M. A. Allan addressed the Highline District School Board recommending the cancellation of the College's summer session for this year only. The Board voted approval.

In making the recommendation, Dr. Allan stated that the money used for the summer session could better be used on the new campus facilities of Highline College.

Several factors were introduced on the present operation of the 1964 Summer Session at Highline College. The following factors are the ones introduced by Dr. Allan to support the reason for canceling the session.

In the past, expenses for summer sessions incurred before July 1 have been charged to income for the fiscal year ending June 30. Thus, costs of the session were divided between two fiscal years.

New regulations of the State Board of Education require that all expenses for the 1964 Summer Session be charged to the 1964-65 budget. The impact of this undivided item in the budget is apt to be severe, he indicated.

A budget for community colleges, enacted by the last Legislature, places a ceiling of 1,000 full-time equivalent students for the present year at Highline.

A guess can be made as to the ceiling for next year at about 1,250 students, an increase of only 161. With an estimated growth of only 161, Highline will be moving to a new campus with central core facilities for 2,500 students and instructional facilities which can accommodate 1,500. These expanded facilities and the larger campus will involve extra costs placing considerable strain on a budget only slightly larger than the one under which the college is now operating.

With the greatly enlarged facilities available on the new campus it will be very easy to accommodate 1,250 students for whom the college will receive state support, absorbing the summer enrollment with little or no increase in expenses. Summer students thus absorbed into the regular year will have the advantage of attending class in better facilities.

While a year-round operation of the College is seen as educationally desirable and consistent with the purposes of the College, it is thought that suspension of the Summer Session for 1964 only would be in the interest of the College and its students.
