Advertisers are invited to request space in the next issue of the Tribune-Word. To be included in the next issue, space must be secured by the end of this week.

The airline industry continues to be in turmoil as airlines struggle to recover from the recession and to deal with the recession. The industry is facing a number of challenges, including increased fuel costs, competition from other modes of transportation, and decreased passenger traffic.

In the meantime, the airlines are implementing a number of cost-cutting measures, including layoffs and furloughs. These measures have been met with resistance from affected workers, who are worried about job security and the future of the industry.

The airline industry is also facing pressure from government regulators to improve safety standards. In recent years, a number of high-profile accidents and incidents have prompted calls for increased oversight and enforcement. The industry is working to address these concerns, and has made significant improvements in recent years.

However, the airline industry remains a complex and challenging sector, and there are many uncertainties about its future. The industry is facing a number of significant pressures, and it remains to be seen how it will adapt and respond to these challenges in the coming years.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Saturday Night

Dear Editor:

I would like to remind everyone that the University of Washington's Student Activities Board (SAB) is planning a series of events for this weekend. The events include a concert at the University Center on Friday night, and a dance at the Student Center on Saturday night. These events are open to all students, and I encourage everyone to attend and have a good time.

Sincerely,

[Signature]

Dear Editor:

I would like to express my concern about the recent increase in traffic on campus. The increased traffic has made it difficult for students to navigate the campus, and has also created safety concerns. I urge the administration to take steps to address this issue, such as increasing police presence or implementing a campus-wide traffic plan.

Sincerely,

Dear Editor:

I am writing to express my support for the new student activity building being planned for campus. I believe this building will be a valuable asset to the community, providing students with a central location for social and cultural activities.

Sincerely,

Dear Editor:

I would like to bring to your attention the recent increase in crime on campus. This increase has caused a great deal of concern among students and faculty. I urge the administration to take steps to ensure the safety of all members of the campus community.

Sincerely,

SNOW, SKIING; THAT'S THE LIFE

Winter brings a variety of sportswear to the stores, and ski sweaters are just one of the many materials that are available. The ski sweater is not only functional, but also fashionable. It is a must-have item for anyone who enjoys skiing or just wants to look cool.

Skiwear nowadays goes one for a variety of bright bold colors. Other popular parts of ski attire are munch stretch-pants, or with woolen blend, worn anytime and at my phm.

The many materials that are available for ski sweaters are as varied as the people who spend their winters in the snowy villages. You may find yourself with a pair of excitingly new ski sweaters, or you or your dad, for a gift.

The life with snow is the thing to do. It is the best way to stay away from the heat of the summer. The winter brings a variety of ski sweaters, you may find yourself with a pair of excitingly new ski sweaters. You may find yourself with a pair of excitingly new ski sweaters.
Frost Class Meetings Open

The activities now being planned for the coming year by the freshmen class indicate busy meetings will be held every week. The Daily Bulletin will list the date, time, and place of each one. Peter Vantehstd, freshmen class president, stressed the fact that all freshmen are welcome to these meetings.

A dance called the "Blue Book Ball? will be held on March 11. More information will be printed about the dance at a later date. When the basketball season ends, there will be lively programs at Christmas. A candy sale will provide holiday treats. Other possible events are a spring cruise, a car pool, and an athletic field day.

When the Student Union Building is completed, a suggestion box will be placed there for freshmen and sophomores. It is hoped that the use of this box will help establish a closer association between students and teachers. The Activities Calendar, giving the date of meetings and dates that committees will be available in that building, will be distributed. Freshmen will be working with the Activities Council and Social Committee in organizing events.

Although plans are still tentative, there will be numerous projects interesting to Highline students.

FROST FESTIVAL 10
Teach in Biology

Highline College welcomes Miss Marie Gilstrap, a recent addition to the natural science staff.

Miss Gilstrap received her bachelor of science in chemistry at the University of Oregon, followed by training in registration in Medical Lab. at Oregon State University. She then entered a master's of science in clinical pathology at Ohio State University.

She worked as a medical technologist prior to her four years of hospital and teaching work at Michigan State University.

Her experiences also include three years of overseas work with the American Friends Service Committee in community development and with the AID program as a Medical Technology Consultant. Miss Gilstrap returned from overseas work, she was the instructor of the pathology program at Ohio State University, before entering the laboratory supervisor at the University of Arkansas, served as clinical supervisor in the University of Arkansas Hospital and taught at Shoblone Community College.

"You're ugliest man on campus" is what freshmen class named for this honor at the Highline College Halloween Dance October 30. Peter's picture, having won the most money into his jar and finally collected $10.54. The total amount collected, $11.04, will be donated to the United Good Neighbors.

Other candidates for the ugly contest were: International Relations Club, Tom Ogata; Ski Club, Lee Williams; Social Committee, Jess Justice; Student Washington Education Association, Jim Sharpe; Creative Writing, Bill Veret; Thunder Word, Mark McKay; Service Club, Harley Prohorne; Annual, Kim Stryker; Soph Class, Bill Berriman.

We Have Visitors...

Gren River Valley Community College representatives visited Highline College to learn of the Northwest College Project.

Students in the Northwest College Project will be able to take courses at both Gren River Valley Community College and Highline College. This cooperation will enable students to get a complete college education in a shorter period of time.

Our guests were: Gail Johnston, historian of GRCVCC, Dr. Ira H. Thomas, President of the college, and Mary Wilkes, chairwoman of the GRCVCC.

Henry Gallery Has New Exhibit

Printmakers from seven Western states have submitted work for the 15th annual Northwest Printmakers Exhibition at the Henry Gallery at the University of Washington.

Opening November 8, the show will be on exhibit through January 31 at the Henry Gallery. It will then move to Spokane, to be shown December 1 through January 31 at the Cheney Gallery Museum.

Sixty-four printmakers entered the competition. Their works have been recommended for purchase, with final awards to be announced at the end of the show.

The second show at the Henry Gallery is "Africa II," a series of prints from the "Traveling Print Makers" collection. Later, a U.W. alumna, was a student of Posto Pituole of the School of Art. He is a well-known textile designer with headquarters in New York City. His fabric designs for home and industry are produced throughout the world.

The Henry Gallery, located at the edge of the University of Washington campus, is open every day except Wednesday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Admission is free.

Pre-College Test is Valid—Ratte

The Washington Pre-College Test is a valid predictor of college grades for students entering Washington State two-year community colleges, according to a study recently completed by William A. Ratte, Director of Testing and Guidance at Centralia College.

The results of Ratte's study were announced at a meeting of the Northwest College Personnel Association at Garibaldi, Ore., Sunday, October 25, by Dr. William E. Klise, executive director of the Pre-College Testing Program of the Northwest College Project.

Until this time, no studies had been conducted to determine if the test had been studied only at four-year colleges. Ratte's study is the first time the results of the Pre-College Test have been studied at the community college level.

Ratte's study used a group of 2200 community college students who had taken the test prior to entering the junior college. The students were enrolled at freshmen level and had taken an average of 10 credits in high school.

The study was completed at the University of Washington and at the University of Oregon. The University of Washington, Western Washington College, and Western Washington College, were represented at the meeting.

"Some of you might be tempted to suspect that the community colleges are more generous in their grading than are the four-year colleges," said Dr. Klise. "The overall average grades of community college students were only slightly higher than the grades they would have received at the four-year colleges. Klise emphasized that in order to correctly interpret the Washington Pre-College Test, the results must be interpreted by a qualified counselor.
Music Dept. Hunt Talent for Tryouts
The Music Department has made a positive statement declaring, "There is talent at High- line College." In an effort to group this talent into one unit, the department is continuously holding interviews to discover students who play a musical instru- ment. These students will be invited, at their discretion, to form one, all, or a combination of a concert band, stage band or string orchestra. There is no exception. The band, due to financial arrange- ment, requires a set of twenty musicians. The attempt to make this project an actual event will be in the hands of a chosen group throughout the rem- ainder of Fall Quarter.

The Music Department, de- spite its heavy schedule of inter- views, attended a Music Confer- ence on October 24 at Olympic Junior College. Topics that domi- nated the gathering were the advantages and disadvantages regard to transferance of grades, and in proportion of music students for entrance to larger universities; correlation of pro- grams such as music theory, music history, preparation on individual instruments, and class and applied music. Representa- tives attending the conference were Dr. William Alexander, Uni- versity of Washington; Dr. D. Andrea, Western Washington College; Mr. Edward Fisch, High- line College; Mr. Dan Evans, and Everett Junior College.

Rowse Defends Shakespeare
by Claudia Hansen
"He was an animal man. He had a high, smooth, dome-like forehead, rather intense eyes, a sexy nose and a slightly volup- tous mouth." So did speaker Dr. A. L. Rowse describe the physical features of playwright William Shakespeare in his lecture at the first all college annual series held recently in the Art Building.

Dr. Rowse felt that Shake- speare was influenced by his background of a fairly well-off fam- ily and his good gram- mar school education. He never received a university diploma which, according to Dr. Rowse, never allowed him to go beyond the degree of an actor, and therefore spoil his style. Shakespeare's training came to him in the "University of Life."

Shakespeare began as an actor who wanted to write plays. He was a very good his- torian and the most history-minded of all dramatists, hav- ing written 11 plays based on Elizabethan History. Shake- speare had a leaning for the classics which added many non- morable women characters to his plays. When Shakespeare first began producing his plays, Robert Greene, a literary journalist, attacked him, saying that he was an anachronistic and not an intel- ligent actor. He ended up by saying that Shakespeare as he became more popular and famous him as an actor and a well. Shakespeare's sonnets were the most puzzling to Dr. Rowse. Shakespeare's patron, the Earl of Southampton, seemed to Dr. Rowse to be the subject of the sonnets. Shakespeare urged the Earl to marry his father and have children, but the Earl chose to ignore the ideas expressed in the sonnets. The sonnets remain somewhat a puzzle.

When Shakespeare began earning money from his plays, he invested in land to become a country gentleman, and he bought a cost of arms in his father's name so that the records showed that he had been born a gentleman.

Dr. Rowse lead from one branch to another in a speech that being that Shakespeare was not only the one who wrote the Shakespeare plays and sup- posed that Shakespeare otherwise was a "dull".
T-Bird Basketball Team

Practice, November 15

The Thunderbirds will meet officially to begin practice Monday, November 15, to study better playing condition for the upcoming basketball season.

Head Coach, Will Priebe, has organized a number of activities for the season. Among these activities is a trip to Seattle Center Coliseum to watch the professional basketball games of the Seattle Supersonics. Other activities are designed to improve the team's work habits and morale.

Co-Captains: Marlon Bremerton, and Larry Prout will be the main leaders of the team. The team will be as follows: Box: Mike Barr; Guards: Steve Dillingham, and Ron Stovall; Centers: Don Richards, Dave Anderson, and Carl Holland; forwards: Carl Sertz, Witt Bingm, and Bill Johnson; and Stowers. Other key men are: Mike Anderson, Ed Smith, and Ron Stovall. Assistant Coach is Dave Anderson.

A 15-year-old from the public schools, the Thunderbirds have a strong nucleus of which to be proud. There are no涯 serious injuries on the team, and it is expected that the team will be able to play at a high level this year.

Track Invitational

In the Locker Room

Sports opportunities abound for the boys, who have a long season ahead. The first track meet was held on October 24, and plans for the future include trips to other meets and competitions. The team is working hard to maintain their fitness and improve their skills.

Fashion

It has been quite a while since we have had an exchange of information about the latest fashions. To me, the most important thing to remember is that most people want clothes that are in style. This year, the tailored look is in style. The tailored look is a more conservative look than the casual look.

The tournament now going on is a showing of the latest in men's fashions. The tournament is sponsored by the Washington State Junior College Athletic Association. The tournament will be held at the Washington State Junior College Athletic Association headquarters.

The tournament will be held from noon to 11 p.m. which includes three special activities. The special activities include: the showing of the latest in men's fashions, the showing of the latest in women's fashions, and the showing of the latest in children's fashions.
