Services

The services to relate details of the financial situation concerning the lounge.

Paintings

You will also increase your education by discussing the paintings. The paintings will take up the center of the lounge area and will consist of a number of such a week each year, I be well satisfied.

Remodeling

Eventually, there will be a screen wall. The new constructions will include a parking lot for 300 cars along South 240th. The lot was designed to preserve the trees.

Furniture

Another parking area will be located at the north end of the campus and will be accessible from the Kent-Des Moines road.

Scholarships

Scholarships have been awarded to students, and the allocations for the remodel will be determined.

Support

Mr. Slaughter stated that present needs of the art and students will be met by the new support. The committee has decided that one student will have the opportunity to receive a revised furniture allocation.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

Do we deserve the glorified school of today? Is it not true that the modern-day student at Highline College is a well-disciplined, hardworking, and well-rounded individual? Is it not true that our student body is the envy of the nation? Is it not true that our student body is the envy of the nation?

But is it true that the modern-day student at Highline College is a well-disciplined, hardworking, and well-rounded individual? Is it not true that our student body is the envy of the nation? Is it not true that our student body is the envy of the nation?

Dear Editor:

I think that the modern-day student at Highline College is a well-disciplined, hardworking, and well-rounded individual. Is it not true that our student body is the envy of the nation? Is it not true that our student body is the envy of the nation?

As a Matter of Fact...

Larry Leonard

"The Clamming Outdoors"

Are you being taken in by the publicity that the Seattle clamming fleet has received in the past few weeks? Whether you were in the affirmative or the negative doesn't really matter, but what does matter is the encroachment into the harbor by outsiders.

As of this year, the Indians in their battle for their Medicine Man are expected to try again to turn this into a civil rights issue. So far, the Indians have the support of the State absolutely, but for those who are agitating about the interference of outsiders, there is no real sense of victory even though the clamming fleet did not call their protest to the attention of those who are asking just in those "hokels" not wanting anything.

The problem of protecting the clamming fleet by closing the harbor to outsiders does not exist purely on the surface Sala. The problem is that for the past few weeks, those who are agitating about the interference of outsiders are only asking for the harassment of the Indians and one student, who have the utmost respect for the Indians, said, "We are trying to protect the Medicine Man and we are not asking for anything other than the protection of our property.

Tightening of restrictions not only adding to the burden of the Indians.

Snowmaid, Poem Chosen for Films

The poem "Snowmaid" is one of several poems written by an American poet who have been chosen for a film project. The poem was selected from a group of poems submitted by writers from across the United States. The poem has been translated into several languages and is available in bookstores.

Play Casting Announced

Casting for the spring show, "The Silver Chalice," announced by the University of Washington Theater Department. The play will be performed by the university's resident theater group, the Seattle Repertory Company. The play will be directed by Tom O'Hara, who was last seen as the director of the play "The Great White Way." The play is set in a small town in the American West and is about a young man who returns from war to find his hometown changed.

Phillips Speaks On Changing Ideas

Dr. Phillips, president of the university, spoke on the topic of changing ideas. He discussed the importance of changing ideas and how it can be done. He also talked about the role of education in changing ideas and how education can be used to change ideas.

Burglars Enter Three Buildings

Three Highline College buildings were broken into last Saturday morning. The burglars entered the student union building, the administration building, and the library. They were able to enter the buildings through the glass and steal the computer equipment. The damage was covered by insurance and will cover the cost to the college.

The college's presidem has attended a series of statewide meetings to discuss the problem of burglaries at community colleges. The college is looking into possible solutions to the problem.

Asked if the expansion of the college would bring more study programs, Dr. Phillips said, "In an answer to a question concerning increased enrollment, we are looking into possible solutions to the problem of burglaries at community colleges. The college is looking into possible solutions to the problem.

"These plans mean a college with twin square buildings, a unique building for the lively arts, a dance center, and a theater which can be used for plays as well as plays in the round. The college is looking into possible solutions to the problem of burglaries at community colleges. The college is looking into possible solutions to the problem."
Learning Is Key To Fish's Life
by Phyllis Beeth
"Fish has been described as a scholar with a dualistic approach to life. His life is characterized by a constant quest for knowledge and understanding. He has a thirst for new experiences and a passion for learning. His dedication to education is evident in his pursuit of knowledge, both academic and personal. His curiosity is insatiable, and he seeks to expand his horizons through study and exploration. His intellectual curiosity is matched by his desire to share his insights and wisdom with others. Fish's life is a testament to the power of learning, as it has shaped his character and guided him through the challenges and opportunities of life."

FRANNY PHONE: Oh, Colly, can you believe it? Highline almost made it to the championship, didn't they? And the Bobcats lost their last five games in a row! It's like they didn't even try. I mean, they just gave up and didn't fight. It's such a shame.

Colly: No, don't blame them. They're human. They have ups and downs. And sometimes things don't go their way. But they did try, they didn't give up. They fought hard. It's just that this year, it wasn't enough.

FRANNY: I know. It's frustrating, isn't it? But they'll bounce back. They're a tough team. And next year, they'll have a chance to prove themselves again.

Colly: Yeah, I hope so. It's just hard to see them lose like that.

FRANNY: Me too. But that's life. You win some, you lose some. And you just have to keep moving forward. It's what makes life interesting.

Colly: That's true. It's just hard to watch them struggle when you know they're capable of so much more.

FRANNY: Well, let's focus on the positive. Think about all the good things that happened this year. Think about how much they've grown as a team. And think about how much fun they had. It's not just about winning. It's about the journey.

Colly: You're right. It's about the journey. Thank you for reminding me of that. It's good to hear.

FRANNY: Anytime. That's what friends are for. Now, let's go out and have some fun and celebrate the Bobcats for all the good times they had this year. We'll be back next year, stronger and better than ever.

Colly: Agreed. It's time to move forward and make next year the best one yet.

Profile of College Students Revealed by Your Questionnaire

by Nancy Laster

Remember those cards you filled out at registration, with questions regarding how far you traveled to school, and whether you intended to attend a four-year institution? These were part of a study now being partially reported on the “Characteristics of Community College Students.”

The two-year study is being made at state community colleges at the request of the superintendents of public instruction. Statistics have been compiled for the fall, 1964 quarter with some interesting results.

In the fall of 1964 there were 12,851 students enrolled in those 15 colleges with 11,881 students as non-residents. Of these, 441 were at Clark and Lower Columbia Community colleges (graduating students from the northern part of Oregon). Two hundred and twenty-three were at Olympic Community College. The remaining 56 were scattered throughout 12 colleges. The survey revealed that 50% of the students travel less than five miles to school, that full time students travel farther than part time students, and that males travel farther than females.

Regarding the way in which students are enrolled, the study showed that 87% of the students were enrolled in academic courses, 13% in vocational courses, and 2% in adult education or common service courses.

For full-time academic courses the highest percentage of matriculated students was 70% at Centralia. The lowest was 59% at Lower Columbia. The median was 60% at Highline. 37% of students at Highline were freshmen, 47% were sophomores, and 16% were juniors.

Six Staff Changes

The Highline College Thomes staff has had a few changes in staff as of this edition. Steve Adair and second-year journalism student Don Deen have been added to the staff of assistant editor. Pro- misma was feature editor. Other posts appointed by editor Larry Snodgrass were Advertising Manager, Dave Ols, who is responsible for the banana ads, and Fred James, who wrote all of the banana ads. Copy Editors, Phipps Smith and Mary Clark, are responsible for copy reading all stories for the magazine and Business Manager, John Oster, who is responsible for billing advertisers.

Quarterly Wins
