Canned Food Drive Competition
Between H.C. And Green River

The Freshmen Class and the Sophomore Class have organized a canned food drive to support the students in need. This week, students will bring at least one canned good to school to participate in the drive. The drive will continue through November 22, and the collected items will be taken to the Seattle Indian Bureau, where they will be distributed to those in need.

For the drive to be successful, it is important for students to bring as many canned goods as possible. The competition between Highline and Green River Colleges will inspire students to participate. The winner of the drive will be determined by the total amount of goods sponsored by the Sophomore Class. To ensure the drive's success, students are encouraged to bring as many canned goods as possible.

The Freshmen Class meeting on Thursday, November 9, was held in the Potlatch Room. The meeting was to discuss the canned food drive and its importance in supporting students in need. The Freshmen Class leaders emphasized the importance of being generous and helping others.

Frosh Meeting Displays Enthusiasm

The Freshmen Class meeting was well-attended and showed a lot of enthusiasm for the canned food drive. The meeting was held to discuss the plans for the upcoming canned food drive and its importance in supporting students in need.

APATHY SPEAKS

Dear Editor:

As a student at our school, I find it frustrating that our activities are not well supported by the student body. We have heard a new editorial condemning the apathy towards activities, but I would like to know why I promote an activity which I feel is apathetic towards my concern about Student Government or the activities they promote. I'm apathetic toward everything you say I am. I would like to know why I promote an activity which I feel is apathetic towards my concern about Student Government or the activities they promote. I'm apathetic towards everything you say I am.

D. McConnaughey Consistent Winner

While a question may come up about the promotion, every book store that is available -is good. And it is not necessary to use a large number of books to start a successful line library. The future of book stores is not in the number of books sold, but in the quality of books sold. If you take the time to read a book, and then buy it, you will be rewarded. The best way to promote books is to be consistent and predictable. There is no reason why a book store cannot be successful, so long as it is able to reach a large number of people.

In 1964, the first year of 5,000 new books were added. The record for the year was 130 books disappeared. But the Highline College competition, which had entered at least four teams, "We are improving all the elements into success. This is evident in the championship.

Suited to Leonard F. John, Bookstore on the Highline College campus.

Small Bookstore Profits Are Eaten Up In Debts

A virtually worthless, a book store must have a profit. In the small book store, the profit must be made in the very small book store.

The bookstore is owned by the college. The bookstore is the only store that the college has. The college must make a profit, but it must make a profit on the bookstore.
1 I Thunderbirds Close Second in State Meet

Washington Huskies (you remember how I'm sure) pulled the biggest coup of the year November 5 by holding the highest scoring college team in the land to three points and sacking thirteen against one of the toughest defenses in the league. Number three (excuse me, number nine) ranked U.C. & A. bad its problems on Saturday, namely mud.

Picture this: Here come the happy smiling Bruins of sunny California into the Queen City. They are confident that they will still be riding high after the day passes from Saturday to Sunday. They get their pretty white traveling uniforms and gaily run out to the football field only to find that their star quarterback and halfback had fallen in the mud and gotten their uniforms all dirty. It was an outrage. The Bruins debated whether to even play on such a field. They were insulted at such a messy muck. Is this any way to boast the Number Three team in the nation?

After a short discussion with the Coach, the team decides to go out and show those dirty old people that no dirty play would be tolerated. Course the rest is history, and it won't be forgotten, at least not till the Huskies upset an obnoxious team or two.

RUNNERS ARE RUNNER UP

The HIGHLINE Cross Country Team finished just three points back of Shoreline to finish second in the State Cross Country Meet last Saturday, November 12, in Vancouver. Shoreline's score was 40 points and HIGHLINE's was 43. This finishes the CC won at HIGHLINE and even though they did not retain the championship from last year they finished strong in all their meets, losing to only two Community College teams, Spokane and Shoreline. In other meets the T-BIRDS defeated the same teams.

THE MONSTER THAT DEVOURED CLWUND (William that is)

Cassius Clay (as I call him because I can't spell adummed Ali) literally devoured Clay and spit him out in little pieces, and it only took two and a half bites. The only people who say Clay can't punish are the people who haven't fought (him.

REGON STATE 24, WASHINGTON 13 (That's all that 'nd be said)

Washington lost last week but they won't lose tomorrow (I hope). Since the Huskies have been so inconsistent, predictions are nearly impossible in that direction. But since I haven't lost all faith in the Huskies I shall attempt one prediction, the Huskies and Cougars will play on Saturday. (finis)
