Colonel Slaughter Expresses His Views of Viet Nam

Colonel Slaughter states that for the United States to remain a free nation, we must be continuously on the alert. Since 1946 to the present day there has been a threat on our freedom and we must be well prepared to speak out against those who would seek to rob us of our freedom.

During Mr. Slaughter's speech, he also had hideous predictions of the future of the situation. Since the United States is well prepared to speak out against those who would seek to rob us of our freedom, we must do what is necessary in the future.

The question of the war in Viet Nam today is a serious one. He stated that one can really justify the loss of lives in Viet Nam today. No one can really justify the loss of lives in Viet Nam today. He stated that if we didn't do it, the survivors would be the ones who would have to answer for it. He went on to say that if we didn't do it, the survivors would be the ones who would have to answer for it.

His Views of Viet Nam

Colonel Slaughter ended his speech with a request to the students who remain. He stated that he hoped there would be a little more understanding from all of us, and to continue to support our leaders.

Student Who Would Be Thief

A student who was caught attempting to steal from a hubcap was spoken of by Gary Parker, Jr. He said that the student was caught attempting to steal from a hubcap, and that the incident occurred at Highline College. The student was immediately apprehended and confessed to his involvement.
Colonel Slaughter Expresses His Views of Viet Nam

Colonel Slaughter expressed his views on the war in Viet Nam during a speech given at Highline College. He said that the United States is not well prepared to speak about the war and that local people as well as other nations need to be informed of the situation. The colonel stated that he was not participating in his country's activities and that he was speaking to the people about the situation. He also said that the United States should continue to talk about the war and that all people need to be informed about the situation. He also stated that the United States should continue to talk about the war and that all people need to be informed about the situation.

Editorial...Student Elections

Do you want to have your say in student affairs? Do you want to change the way things are handled in student government? Well, you have an excellent chance to do so. It serves as an advertiser for clubs, a defender of diversity, and a pattern for student leaders. It is a communicator between the administration and student body, a catalyst of change. It is an excellent office to run for in student government. And, if successful, you have a chance to be a good student leader. These include willingness to devote a great deal of time to student affairs with little or no return for it, a spirit of cooperation with fellow officers and with the administration, and the ability to withstand criticism from students in general. But what do these qualities mean? Gee whiz, two hours a week on the paper for one credit, or the staff, is to offer a few suggestions for organizations.

The first major breakthrough to improve news coverage would be to offer students an opportunity to operate independently between clubs, organizations, class and ASB officers and the Thunder-Word staff.

The staff is too small and represents nothing like the just one edition. Maybe the work could be divided evenly among page editors. Also, the editor is not paid a new editor each quarter might lessen the burden. This would also enable more students interested in journalism as a profession a better chance to learn the trade by actually working on page make-up and at the printers. This is possible, but right now, no one, even the paper editor is sure that he has his own ideas on how it should be done.

There are not the only Junior College with these problems. Highline could initiate a JC Journalism Conference. Invite the staffs from several colleges to a workshop conference, have a guest speaker in the field of journalism, and discuss the problems faced by college papers.

Four—This paper belongs to the students of Highline College. Without your suggestions and full cooperation there will never be any significant changes made.

As a new paper, you can't please everybody all of the time, but we try.

Vocational Week

Spotlights Seven Programs Here

A special focus on Highline College's occupational program will be made during Vocational Education Week in the state of Washington, set for Feb. 28 through March 4. Steeding the week-long emphasis on the campus will be Dr. David R. Stany, Director of Vocational Education and Margaret Powell, Coordinator of Office Occupations.

The college offers two-year terminal programs in office occupations, business word processing, civil technology, data processing, mail management, graphic arts and nursing. Transfer programs are offered in other areas such as engineering and business administration.

Special short courses are offered in office occupations, manipulator development, planning, management for business leaders and other areas.

The students complain when no activities or special speakers are offered for them to attend. The student government, special committees, and campus clubs are supposed to offer a program of the most interest, variety, and convenience for the student body. All they want is to have a little enjoyment to break the monotony of the everyday schedule. They work many hours to present these special activities for the students and have a lot of satisfaction in their participation.

These activities are planned for the benefit of the student body; and the people who put all their efforts and precious time into presenting them only want to have a complete feeling of satisfaction of a job well done.

Is the school spirit at Highline College? It must be there, hidden somewhere—discover it!

Why Not Get a Degree From Highline Community College?

Never to appear an often in the bulletin. The college catalogue explains its simple requirements. Then why do so many students who spend two years at Highline fail to graduate?

After talking with several Highline students who don't intend to graduate, there would seem to be no real reason—just poor excuses.

Some of the most common excuses for not getting a diploma are: "I don't want to take health and safety courses." We don't need a diploma from here, I'm going to transfer." "A diploma from Highline just doesn't mean that much. If the first time around, they didn't take a full load every quarter.

These students fail to see that a diploma from Highline is important. What if the transfer student finds that he cannot continue his education at a four-year college. Wouldn't the achievement of an Associate in Arts Degree look better on a job application than just two years of college? And certainly an Associate in General Studies Degree would be more useful than two years of general education, nothing to the student who doesn't plan an education beyond Highline.

Wake up fellow students!

Editorial... Student Elections

Do you want to have your say in student affairs? Do you want to change the way things happen in a student government? Well, you have an excellent chance spotting you might recognize— the annual spring A.S.B. elections.

Now is the time to begin thinking about the possibility of running for an office or for class staff. And, if past years are any indication, you have an excellent chance since there are rarely more than two candidates for each office.

What are the qualifications needed to become a student officer? You must be a registered student, be between the ages of 18 and 24, and for a period of one year you must maintain a 2.0 GPA. There are other qualities, however, that are most important to becoming a successful student leader. These include: the ability to work with a diverse group of people to achieve a goal, the ability to listen to and the ability to take criticism from the students in general.

This is not to be decided for the A.S.R. officers in the spring. It is to be a matter of concern for all students. They might want to consider if they want to represent the students or if they want to serve. They will have to decide if their election is a vote of confidence to run things as they see fit without re- trag on the students or if they want to represent them in some other way.

Which things are proposed to represent them, not oppose them in a battle of wills. What can we do about it? The Constitution and the student government which sets the students' behalf. First, the Constitution can be changed to require a higher level of participation from prospective student leaders. Secondly, students can be required to run on a well-grounded platform rather than on how they will do the work of the students or on how they will break down the problem of a student body which is opposed to student officers' work.

The students complain when no activities or special speakers are offered for their benefit and of the students. The questions is—how does the student spirit at Highline College? It is certainly hasn't been disrupted in abundance lately. It can be proven by the attendance at the art lecture series, the basketball games, the recent visit of Supreme Court Justice Douglas and the Thunderer also has been unbroken. It has to be unbroken because of the lack of interest in the students.

Do You Have A Worthy Cause?

How many people reading this can honestly say that they have a cause? Something to fight for? A belief that is so important that it is worth putting oneself out for a cause with no tangible rewards to one well up our modern society and make it as good and/or bad as it is. We should have decided for ourselves what type of person we want to be, how we want others to think of us, and with what fiction of reality we wish to be identified.

Having decided those things, we have weighed one against the other, successes and against a deficit, a personal decision as to what we want the world to be and what we can do to make it so we desire it. Each of us has a different idea of what type of world we want to live in, hence we should treat others, how we should be treated to return. Remember, it is safe to say, others with belief in similar or different people working toward a world goal. It is important that we become one of that group and do something about reaching those goals. It is easy to be a spectator in an idealistic movement and do nothing for those is oppressed and/or those who are to come, then the world is better off for having had that person. By the same token if a person is apathetic enough to only be concerned with himself and that affects others himself, the world could have done without that person. It is often said that as young people, we will inherit the world. It will be our turn to try and do better with than those preceding us. It is true, and we know it to be so. We also realize that now is the time to work hard, to work on what we want to see in the future also takes idealism and some foresight.

We should have no cause toward which we are contributing something, you can have no cause toward which you are contributing something, you have no right to complain about the state of society.

Why Not Be More Sensible? Use More Logic, Less Panic

We know that people questioned the Waste Report, her own eyes (remember Senator McCarthy’s) that the U.S. is not winning in Viet Nam are dying. Our purpose here is not to sway you to one side or the other of a political view, but to give you the opportunity of making an informed decision. Of the opposition to those who believe in something, should we also believe it? Because if there is a lack of those who pursue the truth, no matter where it leads, we must act to uphold and advance the rights of those who believe in something.

Calling the Johnson Administration names won’t solve the problem in Viet Nam. Refusing to let Dr. Leo Zemel speak will not solve the mystery. It is not enough to make personal attacks, good politicians; but clear thinking, a demand for facts, and willingness to work to solve problems we know how to solve. We can learn to recognize those facts, every time we use them, we have no effect on those logic and clear thinking, and that is what we are the people who pursue the truth. Millions of dollars are spent in research to find the answer to those problems. We have to make decisions when it comes to our own.

Signs of Weakness Shown By Commission Report

The Warren Report has, no doubt, left many questions and testimonies unanswered and unpublished. Why is it that only selected testimony is used for the Commission’s conclusions? Why would the Commission have the evidence secured in the National Archives so that it could not be examined? Should the Commission’s conclusions be re-examined? Did the Commission not think that it would have all published all the information whether contrary to what they thought or not. Why was it not brought out that Jack Ruby knew closer to 600 Dallas police.

Are you afraid that he knew more night have aroused

Jack Ruby’s name is a special feature of the Highfll Series. Each Friday at 12:00 in the Lecture Hall, feature length and short experimental films are shown.

Mr. Hofmann explained that the short experimental films are not as avidly attended. He stated that the experimental films would be more educational as far as learning about the media of communications.

The feature length films are also considered experimental since many of them incorporate innovations when they were filmed. Only two films this year will not be in the experimental category. Don Quixote and Bard of Evens, to be shown during the Spring Arts Festival, are not considered experi-

Do You Have A Worthy Cause?

How many people reading this can honestly say that they have a cause? Something they really care about, that they are willing to go out and fight for, that they are willing to make sacrifices for? It is amazing, I think, that so many people are so content with the world as it is. There are so many things we could be fighting for, so many causes we could be working for, and yet so many of us just go about our daily lives, completely unaware of the world around us.

We should have decided for ourselves what type of person we want to be, how we want others to think of us, and with what vision of society we wish to be identified. Having decided these things, we should set goals and work toward them. We should be aware of the world around us, of the things that are going on, and what we can do to make it a better place. Each of us has a different idea as to what type of world we want to live in, how we should treat others, how we should be treated in return. But it is our duty to decide for ourselves what type of world we want to live in. It is too easy to just be a spectator in life, an armchair diplomat so to speak, and look very deep to see the false thinking here, yet she is dilliewed as bad? Why is it that in nearly every political situation people talk about TAD.

It will take more trouble for a person with more sensitivities to get involved, which concerns him, to pull yourself together for a cause with no tangible rewards to be personally reaped out of it. To get involved with the cause of one's own self is to be a part of a greater cause, a cause that is greater than oneself and others. There is no small good or selfish purpose that we could be contributing something, you have no right to complain about the state of society.

Chris Bonham.

Why Not Be More Sensible?

Use More Logic, Less Panic

We heard a man talking a while ago about Viet Nam. He re-

We know a lady, and get this, who knows that Johnson was held up for two weeks by an irate泰国 lady. He was held up by a small group of people who questioned the Warren Report, her own eyes were not opened until March 1965 when the Pentagon Papers were released, and when she heard what was happening in Viet Nam are dying. Therefore, since Johnson is the one who has been most involved in this war, what is going on in the world, if she has been involved in President Kennedy's death. One doesn't have to look very deep to see the little thinking here, yet she is still con-

Hitler once said something to the effect, find me our hearts, not to see those men, admitting his lack of logic, clearly see-

Our purpose here is not to sway you to one side or the other of any question. We are not trying to get everyone to see the same thing. We are just trying to get everyone to think for themselves and not just parrot what they read in the newspaper.

Calling the Johnson Administration names won't solve the problem in Viet Nam. Refusing to let Dr. Leary speak won't solve the mystery of the Grassroots, no matter how much they may claim to be doing good in the world. But it is clear that we need to understand the logic behind these actions, and why they are being done. It is also apparent that we need to think more about what we are doing and why we are doing it.

To know that the 1960s are not the 1950s is the least of those who pursue the truth, no matter where it leads. It is too easy to be content with the world as it is, especially when it makes no sense. It is too easy to believe what we have been told, without even questioning it. The world is too complex for that. We need to be willing to think for ourselves, to question everything, and to make our own decisions.

When we are willing to think for ourselves, to question everything, and to make our own decisions, we can make a real difference in the world. It is not easy, but it is possible. The world is more complex than we have been led to believe, and we need to be willing to think for ourselves and to question everything.

Student Leaders Attend LSD Hearings

Picture with students from Green River College are: Student Leader Mr. Paul Branden; Deitra Pravolini; and John Jones of Green River. The hearing dealt with legislation concerning LSD and other dangerous drugs. Three student leaders attended from throughout the state attended as guests of Republican legislators.

The mock conviction of Oswald as the presidential assassin is an example of the weakness of the Warren Commission. They stated that the testimony of a defiant Oswald, who had threatened to kill the president, was strong enough in itself to warrant conviction. But when asked if he had ever seen Jack Ruby, who he had been threatened, Oswald said yes. This statement was considered to be insufficient evidence for conviction.

Mrs. Leonard Finds Fac. B
A Pleasant Place to Work

by Carlotta Rose

Working as a secretary is one of the favorite occupations of women. But Mrs. Mary Leonard, secretary of faculty B, enjoys the activity and variety of her job. She finds it a challenge to try to please the faculty she works for. She also finds Faculty B a pleasant place to work even though her job is demanding because of the number of people in the building she works for.

Mrs. Leonard is a native of Seattle and attended the University of Washington. She and her family live in the University District. Mrs. Leonard is a full-time counselor and assistant to the principal at University Junior High School. She has two sons: Ron, a sophomore at Oregon State, and Mark, 10, in the fourth grade at West Vista.

Some of Mrs. Leonard’s duties as secretary include taking all phone calls and messages for the faculty, typing letters, instructional material and letters, and trying to keep track of busy faculty members.

Mrs. Leonard started working at Highline College last September. Her impression of the institution during her four months at Highline is that they are so ready and willing to help the students and give a great deal of time and effort to this purpose. She is thrilled to see the growth and development of the school.

She finds the speakers in the morning bell very interesting, and considers them a fringe benefit to her job.

Enrollment is Mostly Male

There are nearly three men for every two women on campus at Highline College. Total enrollment of 3,104 consists of 1,822 males and 1,258 females students.

The ratio is about the same for part-time students to full-time students. The ratio for women in our classes lately due to the excessive amount of mood and apparatus on campus! This problem is due to the construction activities planned for the next year but is seriously interfering with the educational and intellectual atmosphere of Highline College.

Many students have already expressed the need for serious action to curb the danger to life and limb which surrounds us at each step we take outside a building. It was to be expected, though, that Highline’s students would react in such a manner as we have long had a reputation for being the most serious minded, knowledge-seeking, deep down intellectual students this side of Harvard.

Besides interfering with the smooth and orderly flow toward classes into which students head toward their classroom and elsewhere, the hidden dangers include the stampede at quitting time. Many people in a panic. All too many pass a student committee to throw themselves body and soul on the line in the area for having the mud which surrounds us.

As we have long had a reputation for being the most serious minded, knowledge-seeking, deep down intellectual students this side of Harvard.

Enrollment is Mostly Male

The members of the Executive Board have challenged the faculty in a basketball game tonight at 6:30 in the pavilion. This game will be part of the pre-game activities planned for the Final Home game of the season.

The Thunder-Birds will play three competitive teams and then white members of the Highline High School gymnastic team display their gymnastic talent.

Come early and cheer for your favorite team and plan to stay late for the after game dance sponsored by Pep Club.

Freshman Conference Proposal Announced

Bob Bialorutz, freshman class president, announced that plans are being made by the freshman class of Highline College to interest freshman class officers from other community and junior colleges in a conference.

The conference, according to the proposal presented by the freshmen, would be the first of its kind and would include both community and junior colleges. The purpose of the conference is to discuss methods for relating freshmen to one another and problems.

The proposal is for the Freshman Conference to be held on the first day of the fall term and to be open to all freshmen.

Money for Instructional Aids Has Been Requested by Highline

Highline College has submitted a request to the federal government for a money grant which would allow the school to purchase laboratory and instructional equipment, according to Dr. Paul E. Johnson, director of curriculum.

The request is divided into two categories, the first of which involves $18,000 worth of scientific equipment and general instructional aids.

Eight thousand dollars of this would be used to buy 24 comer microscopes, and a package of auxiliary equipment.

The remaining $10,000 would be used to buy general instructional aids for the library.

The request is to be matched with a 50% of the federal grant.

Seattle Times, some magazines.

According to Dr. Martha K. S. Johnson, there is a high probability that the money for this grant will be granted.

The second category involves $2,000 worth of television equipment. Included in this is a Teleprompter, a video tape recorder and about $1,100 worth of auxiliary equipment.

The maximum amount of money needed for the equipment is $2,000. Half of this amount or match will be given by the federal government, according to Dr. Johnson.

These would include the sets of encyclopedias, microfilm of the New York Times and The Seattle Times, and some magazines.

Yes, Highline Does Have Advantages

by Phyllis Booth

Highline College - Mickey Mouse? A place for easy "A's," easy "C's"? A graduated high school? Not at all! Community college students as well as four year college students and faculty tend to throw those labels rather carelessly at the nation's two year schools. These people, who can't feel "above" the surfactant atmosphere of the junior colleges, in most cases, failed to weigh the facts against the advantages of the community college, and have instead jumped for surface disadvantages, blowing them out of proportion.

How many times has someone done this to you, "Oh, a community college...that's an easy school, isn't it?" or "That's where the dumb kids go?"

The person who makes such statements has probably not attended Highline. Any of this college's top students who held the highest GPAs can testify that the good courses are not easy courses.

Similarly, Highline is not the place where the dumb kids go, but any more so than is the University of Washington. Highline has many of the top students from the district high schools.

Highline is advantageous in that it gives the student the time to decide upon a major field while he is free from paying 3000 tuition and 800 room and board.

The courses offered do not compare in scope to the member of this college offered at a college such as the University, but they do compare to the courses offered to freshmen and sophomores at the Universitv.

Highline's instructors have the same education as do the four year college faculty members. Most hold a master's degree, while several have even more. Their advantage is that they do not have classes offered to freshmen and sophomores at the University.

HIGHLINE EVEN SEASON

by Dale Bollinger

The Highline Colleges Thunderbirds invaded their slate at seven wins and as many losses by dropping two overtime basketball games in conference play. Skagit Valley and Shoreline were the victims, each team winning after being tied at 70 all for the end of regulation time.

Skagit Valley

In Mount Vernon, the home-standing Cardinals made it three in a row over Highline, 65-63. The Wednesday, February 11, game saw the league leaders, although Highline fell behind at the half, 44-44, the lead changed hands nine times before settling in favor of the hosts. Harold Ross, Rich Anschutz, and Bill Eldred carried the scoring load for the Thunderbirds, accounting for 47 of the 87 points. Ross paced the trio with 32 points, Eldred hit for 12 and nine field goals. Eldred was also the game's leading rebounder with a tally of 12, two more than the total garnered by one of the league's best, Mitch Adams.

Jon Sholberg and Phil Kas- tens both fouled out of the game in the attempt to hold down Adams. Sholberg scored seven points while still on the floor, and Kastens got three before he was called for the right. Veltry Johnson also tall- led three, Dave Packard had only two and Gas Snuka did not shoot. The loss was by two baskets, however for the visitors who held the Cardinals scoreless through the last two and a half minutes of the second period while coming from behind to knot scores. Rich Anschutz led the surge by hitting the last eight points for the T-birds. His hit in war, however, when his last chance shot missed just before the horn ended the second 20 minutes of play. The Thunderbirds, however, claimed the last minute extra, finally losing by four.

Shoreline

The Seniors paid their toll to the Highline Pavilion the following Friday, February 20. The visitors found themselves in a stalemate after the first quarter with the Thunderbirds, but made a way of the format on the second, taking a ten-point lead at the half. The T-birds would extend their advantage on five inspiration points through the five extra minutes while Shoreline helped themselves to 13 decisive points.

The Thunderbirds lined out three extra victories for Highline in league play, defeating Skagit Valley, and Shoreline each possess a win in 65 minutes play. In losing seven games and only one with these teams so far this year, the Thunderbirds have been outscored only by a 14 point total margin.

Double Figures

Against Shoreline, the Highline starters hit in double fig- ures, but registered only a penalty six more from the other five who played. Veltry Johnson again was high for the team. The Seniors led the team, but the biggest 29th on the floor, raked in 15 points for the team.

Bill Eldred, former Northwest State High School star, but believed to be the leader of the team, ended up with 14 points for the visitors who saw both teams brought in to just 57 behind the school record of 306 in a season set last year by Bill Harper.

Phil Kastens started for Coach Jack Hubbard, but played better from the bench, scoring all but two of his 12 points after the intermission. Rich Anschutz continued to score in double digits with a 14 point tally. Jon Sholberg, Veltry Johnson, and Gas Snuka each hit for just two. Johnson and Olson both had three points for the Titans.

SPOILERS
The HIGHLINE college basketball team now has not too much of a chance to make the State Tournament this year. The team will play a new role, that of spoiler, a job that the last two T-BIRD6s retained for themselves. The T-BIRD6s have done so well this year, the teams they finished third and second.

The T-Birds have played fairly well, but the overall unevenness of all the teams in the League makes it difficult to lose even close games. There are only three games left in the season, and of those three, the opportunity to get one into the Tournament game with second place Shadle Valley is the last game of the season for the T-Birds. This is a role that was not imagined when they went to the tournament they finished third and second.

CAN THEY BE STOPPED?
The T-BIRD6s are now proving to be the championship team in the winter sports department this year. The grizzlies have been defeated only once this year, and are favored to take the State Championship; all this in their first year as a varsity sport. Much credit must be given to Coach Dick Wooding who has guided the talented wrestling team to the position they now hold. Can they be stopped? Why don't you go and see for yourself, why I think they can't.

House and Senate to Hear 3 Community College Bills

The University of Washington College of Law has been requested by the Senate and House committees on Higher Education to direct their attention to three bills that are currently pending before the legislature:

1. HB 606, which proposes amendments to the existing state system of community colleges, including changes to the fiscal structure and the role of the state board of community colleges.
2. SB 610, which seeks to establish a state lottery to fund scholarships and other financial aid programs for community college students.
3. HB 610, which would provide for a state-funded program to improve the quality of instruction in community colleges.

The University of Washington College of Law is working closely with the sponsors of these bills to ensure that the interests of community college students are well-represented in the legislative process.

Committee to Probe Breakdown of Profits

An important component of the discussion surrounding the bills is the issue of financial transparency and accountability in the community college system. The committee will be investigating the breakdown of profits to ensure that funds are being used effectively and efficiently to support the educational mission of the community colleges.

Gladys Abbott

Secretary at Hillside

Although the bills may bring short-term financial gains to the community colleges, the committee is committed to ensuring that long-term sustainability is achieved. This includes addressing issues such as the cost of tuition, the availability of financial aid, and the quality of instruction.

Alzada Knickerbocker of Knoxville, Tennessee, in the plaid dress, returned from the study-travel semester to complete her senior year in English at Radcliffe College.

Mr. Abbott is New Secretary at Hillside

A new secretary at Hillside College has been appointed. Although the only work that the new secretary has to do is to copy instructions to students from the instructor and to pass them on to the members of the class, the task is not without its challenges. In addition to the standard secretary's duties, the new secretary is responsible for maintaining a comprehensive database of student information, which includes grades, attendance records, and other relevant data.

The University of Washington College of Law is pleased to welcome Mr. Abbott to the faculty and look forward to his contributions to the college.
