Draft Deferments Available

Any male student entering the U.S. armed forces must have a registered draft number to enter service. Students can receive a 2-S deferment from the draft by registering with the draft board. The student must also fill out a written request for 2-S deferment and have the request signed by a parent or guardian. The draft board will then notify the student of his eligibility for the 2-S deferment.

Any male student who has served in the armed forces of the United States for a period of 18 months may be eligible for a 2-S deferment. Any student who has served on active duty in the armed forces for a period of 2 years may be eligible for a 2-S deferment. Any student who has been discharged from the armed forces for a period of 1 year may be eligible for a 2-S deferment.

Deposit Blood: Gift of Life

Students, faculty and all others are encouraged to donate blood as a gift of life. The Bloodmobile will be at the college on October 16 from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. in Classroom Building No. 108. Our goal is 100 units. Any student who donates blood will receive a free booklet from the American Red Cross.

New Class Officers Elected

Student Conduct Outline Issued

A Student Conduct Outline was issued to all students at the beginning of the fall semester. The outline is designed to provide guidelines for proper student conduct and behavior. Copies of the Student Conduct Outline are available in the Counseling Office.

Boycott California Grapes

By Jack Goldman

Boycott is a term that is often used in the United States to express a desire to support a cause or to protest against a specific issue. In the case of California grapes, the boycott is a call to action that is based on the principle of human rights and social justice. The grapes are grown in California, and the workers who pick them are often denied fair wages and working conditions. The boycott is a way to show support for the workers and to encourage them to demand better treatment.

IN THE NAME OF HUMANITY DON'T eat grapes

Naturally there is a catch to all this. The "boycott" movement is not always an easy one to participate in. The workers who pick the grapes are often denied fair wages and working conditions. This fact must be taken into consideration when deciding whether to participate in the boycott. This is a difficult issue to navigate, but it is important to remember that the workers who pick the grapes are human beings with the right to fair treatment and working conditions. They deserve to be treated with respect and dignity, and it is our responsibility as consumers to support them.

Available

Draft Deferments are available to any male student who meets the requirements. Students should contact their local draft board for more information on how to obtain a deferment.

Indian Rights May Be A Joke To You, But To The Indians, They're A Matter Of Life And Death

When I heard about the Indian Rights demonstration on October 13th, I thought it wasn't such a bad deal. But when I saw a young Indian girl stand up at the demonstration to say a few words, and then put her hand in her school bag and take out a weapon, I was truly awestruck. The girl had a gun and a knife, her favorite devices to defend themselves.

She told the attentive crowd about the day a "government man" came to the Indian's door and said, "If you want to keep your land, you must sign this document." The Indian responded, "I will never sign this document. I will never give up my land." And so the demonstration began.

When I ended her plea for humanity by calling ours a "sick society," I was met with a chorus of "Amen." It was beautiful and full of familiar sounds. The prayer was genuine and heartfelt. The crowd was there at the Indian Rights Demonstration October 13th. They were there to demand justice and respect for their fellow human beings.

By the title of this column, you may think it contains little tidbits about astronomy, the distance from Earth to Mars, or a scientific essay on man's best friend: the Sun. Otherwise known as the Dog Ball in sun-baked student memory, Simon Fraser University located in Burnaby, B.C. has a special class for creative students who are financially embarrassed. This class meets every Sunday, in a different type of art class. This Workshop, as it is known on this campus, consists of one teacher and an unending supply of students. The students take matches boxes, typewriter keys, soup cans and various other forms of debris and mold them into art forms. Sort of like doing your own thing.

The other side of a "mobile lounge" can be overcrowded facilities. Simon Fraser's campus will include a four-unit campus recreation center. The lounge, which will seat about 140 students, is located in the theatre parking lot. This would be a nice answer to Highline's cafeteria and lounge overcrowpulation. But then there's the problem of finding a parking space.

Students from Wenatchee Valley College, Yakima Valley College and Columbia Basin College may enter a one-act play contest, the winners to appear on the Sorthwest area.

Who knows, maybe some Pulitzer Prize material may find its way onto the script of an unsuspecting Eastern Washington College student. But then, of course, the young playwright would have to compete with other forms of literary art, such as this column.

Seattle Community College recently received a Bell helicopter in exchange for the school's World War II Grammar FiP fighter. The Marine Corps' interest in the plane was stimulated by the fact that the FiP was the only aircraft of its type the corps had at the beginning of World War II.

The new helicopter will be used for training students studying aircraft mechanics. And, if placed in a large enough room, it can be quite effective as a make-shift air-conditioner.

A new forestry technology course will be offered at Wenatchee Valley College. Forestry technicians, are men who fill the gap between the skilled workers and the graduate foresters.

Completion of the recommended two-year program at WVC, which is an Associate of Applied Arts Degree, qualifies the student for these positions. Forestry technicians are steadily growing in demand, and if they don't find it, they may find themselves taller than the trees they're hired to take care of.

It's Simply Out of Reason

By Tony Labarche

On this Thanksgiving at the Salvation Army? You would think so by the dishes that the food rind I use that word would be in the Highline calender is served on. The remains are a big joke. Have you ever tried to cut cold roast beef on hard bread with a plastic knife? In our present day society, it is usually the objective to make a profit and satisfy us. Sometimes you have to take shortcuts. But not all the time.

It is usually expected of a place that serves food to serve all hot meals on a plate or dish rather than a piece of paper. Somehow the enjoyment of what little taste there is, is destroyed by the use of plastic utensils.

It is also apparent that the least amount of work and quality goes into much of the food which is prepared. It seems to me that when students are getting $3.60 per hour and the women about $2.30-2.50 per hour, the labor cost would be relatively low and food would be of a more consistent quality. If the food must remain the same, then the prices should be within reason. If the Highline students attended this institution to make money, it would be a shame of a different color, but they didn't. School costs a lot of money, and the Highline cafeteria is making no concessions.

Last year, according to reports made by the League of Women Voters, the United Nations, through its family of organizations, vaccinated 15 million children against smallpox, 120 million children against polio, 3,106 technical experts in the field of food and agriculture.

Supported feeding programs in 100 countries.

Developed literacy programs in 80 countries.

Supported educational research projects in building, housing, production planning, disease control, harbor expansion, weather observation, flood production, atomic radiation, narcotics control, civil aviation and many more.

Although they rarely make headlines in the newspapers, these many social and economic achievements are performed every day by the continuing work of the United Nations. And they are part of the work of international organization which strives directly toward the development of a world in long-term peace. It is automatic that a hungry person is an angry person; that an illiterate boy will become a disadvantaged man who can't compete, and consequently, that he will be a disadvantaged adult who can't compete, and consequently, that he will be a disadvantaged adult who can't compete.

And so the basic international programs of the UN concentrate on the building of strong economic and social foundations for nations and the development of human resources that are their prerequisites.

The United Nations deals with weighty issues—hunger, the lack of education, the illiterate. It tries to do away with hunger. The United Nations deals with weighty issues, hunger, the lack of education, the illiterate. It tries to do away with hunger. It helps the worker, the businessman, the scientist and technician too. It aids nations large and small make the most what they have.

Such is the interdependence of living in our world today that everyone at some phase of his life is affected by the programs of international cooperation of the United Nations. Who needs the UN? We all do.

The Return of McCarthyism; The End Of The Establishment

By DAVID ISRAEL

Eighteen years ago Senator Joseph McCarthy took it upon himself to save the country from Communism and this nation foolishly applauded this obsessed neurotic as he renewed the Salem “witch hunts.” This time different, but the reasons were that this “hunt” was in 1950, not 1750, the setting was in Congress, not the towns square, and they were after communists not witches. Other than that, the same lunacy prevailed. Four years too late this shameful man was condemned and the trial in which he stood trial for the trials.

McCarthy’s purge against suspected communists is, strikingly similar to Russia’s actions against suspected capitalists. Both the American and Russian governments believe that for their systems to perpetuate themselves, it is necessary to destroy those who want to induce change in the system. However, it is just such action as this, that will eventually destroy the system.

For 12 years since McCarthy, American presidents have been unable to keep McCarthy’s ghost, J. Edgar Hoover, in check. However, LBJ has sidetracked the issue and quite clear on young radicals. Nixon has already stated that he will have all subversives (meaning those who dissent) held under close scrutiny. No one knows what will happen who is a follower of the Committee of Correspondence.

Conform To Non-Conformity

Now that the registration periods are ending, college campuses are almost all over the country, and with record breaking enrollments, we can see they are going to be a problem. The government is wondering what to do next. If you’re unhappy with our government, you can call Dick Dykeeman at 222-2222.

However, for a small percentage of these dissenters, it’s not enough to be anti-war and anti-establishment, they are also, regrettably, anti-U.S.

For that small minority of dissidents, I’d like to present a few suggestions for improvement in a reasonably normal fashion and not by means that are violent and destructive.

First, I’m not reluctant to say that all the radical dues have been paid. The ones who have not been at least the ones who have not been at least the ones who have not forgotten McCarthy and his ruthless tactics.

Highline Places In 4 Way Meet

The Highline Storms swept all in their path last weekend. They took first in the 4 Way Meet Saturday with 49 points. The University of Puget Sound, Tacoma, Evergreen, and Pacific Lutheran took second, third, and fourth, respectively.

Highline ended a five year drought of losing in the 4 Way Meet. The team had not won since 1962, and this year they returned the favor in the opening meet. The team is composed of four seniors: Steve Peterson, Steve Brown, Steve Smid, and Steve Alcorn.

Steve Peterson set the pace for the team by taking second in the race with a time of 15:20. Steve Brown took first with a time of 15:14, while Steve Smid took third with a time of 15:22, and Steve Alcorn took fourth with a time of 15:24.

The team has a lot more represented on other guys to come through. As a result, there is no pressure for any one runner. I'm sure this attitude didn't hurt the team, either.

Rod Damz is one of the top swimmers in the country. He has been on the swim team for two years and has been an All-American his junior and senior years. He is a very athletic boy who can swim fast in just about any stroke.

Rod Damz joined the swim team his sophomore year. He didn't know a thing about the pool, and he was not an All-American swimmer. Wdl become an ALL-American.

He has spent a lot of time and had to work twice as hard because he kept him from being discouraged. He works at the pool every day and has a 58 Chevy with a stereo. He drives to swim meets and has a 58 Chevy with a stereo.

Rod practices the butterfly stroke which is the all important 500 freestyle. He practices the butterfly stroke which was an individual honor. He went to state as a junior and senior which was a 17 credit hour, but like any All-American boy he finds time to date girls.

Indian Rights May Be A Joke To You, But To The Indians, They Are A Matter Of Life And Death

When I heard about the Indian demonstration on October 15th, I automatically decided that it deserved a place in my column. My first impression of the demonstration, which I am sure is the way most people react, was one of humor.

I had immediately pictured the old stereotype of the comic Indian, with long braids and war paint, standing on a rock in the middle of a river with a fishing line on the end of his face. But when I saw a young Indian girl stand up at the demonstration and begin to tell about her grandfather who ran and hid every time a white man came to the door of their house, I began to think again.

In a cracking voice and with tears running down her cheeks, she screamed that the white man was practicing genocide on his people, that they were being kept from earning a living the way in which they had earned their livings for centuries.

She said the attitude toward the day a "government agent" beat up her mother and called her dad obscene names for trying to make a living the only way he could. And she told about the man from the Department of Game and Fisheries stealing her father's nets, which cost them anywhere from $90-90, so that he could not longer support his family.

She ended her plea for humanity by calling ours a "sick society."

Wallace Phenomenon Choice Or Escape?

By Richard Dykeman

George Wallace continually emphasizes that a vote for him represents a choice for the American people. A choice he says from the policies of the Johnson administration, which are parties are now advocating. Ignoring the utter falsehood of this allegation, let's analyze the choice a Wallace administration represents.

First he would forcibly quit all demonstrations. This means at first but also means the curtailment of free speech, so-called free speech by government to stifle criticism not unlike a totalitarian dictatorship.

Secondly he would take the power out of the hands of those "intellectuals" in Washington and give it back to the people. That would be an important step, but it would not go far enough.

Enough of conjecture, let's suppose he won in November. With so legislation, or anyone running on his ticket, he would be alone to push through Congress. Second only to a Jefferson woman would be the antagonism generated by Congress against a politician who has backed the system.

Wallace would be useless in stabilizing a domestic situation as unstable as that presently in the U.S. Chicago has shown the dissatisfaction prevalent with the Johnson administration. When it now begins after the realization of a Wallace victory, the suppressive measures he promises would be run by the black minority, from students, just as that from those to this point, have sought to change the system in fact.

For George Wallace is truly an escape: an escape into the world of emotionalism and unreality. It is an escape from reality, rather than involvement in the system.

SDS CAN HELP!

"Administrators say SDS stands for Students who Destroy Society, but as far as the organization is concerned it has and always will stand for Students for a Democratic Society." So says Jack Goldman, one of the organizers of what is hoped to be a very active and constructive chapter of SDS here at Highline.

The preamble of the proposed Highline chapter constitution explains just what SDS is. "The Highline Students for a Democratic Society is the association of concerned Highline College students dedicated to social change."

We wish to join with other individuals and groups in building a nonviolent movement on a basis more consistent with peace and racial equality: a society in which an individual may be himself is an entity. Every person is guaranteed physical well-being and the opportunity to develop to the fullest extent his ego-creative abilities.

SDS affirms the right of every individual to his own opinion, in the decision making process of his society, both social, and political, to make his life ac-"tually influence his life. We will seek to create a free speech and unlimited information movement to encourage a community of life and cooperation in an economy which begins with equal opportunity to all.

SDS was founded in the belief that the fulfillment of the American dream will require substantial changes in many of our present institutions and prevailing class attitudes. We will continue to work to make new avenues to encourage these transformations."

Jack states, "We Highline students must not be afraid to assert our beliefs. We are being asked to accept a world in which we live. We must get prepared for the world we live in."

Like the Afro-American Society, it has not been easy for those students wishing to form an SDS chapter here at Highline. One administrator has already tried taking one member to the police station from the organization before it was too late. But had just hope the proposed constitution does not lay in some dark corner for three months before action is taken on it by the Student Council and the administration," relates Goldman.

While many other SDS chapters believe in disrupting their campuses the Highline chapter has no plans for violent student demonstrations. It is hoped that the Highline SDS will be a new pace for other SDS chapters around the country. SDS at Highline hopes to work with the administration in endeavors that would not give students here any reason to have boycotted the administration. Jack explains, "Meaningful learning in the classroom not competition. The grading system in fact the opposite envy, loneliness, unhappiness, and an artificial sense of failure. The grading system should be abolished and replaced with a simple pass-fail system. Other colleges are moving towards this, now it's our turn."

Mr. Wilson, of the library staff will be advisor to the group. Members have decided to hold responsible for the actions of the group. SDS members feel no member of the faculty should have their position endangered because of student's standpoint. In running up SDS Jack relates, "We do not plan to build a great 'artificial' society, merely a decent one."
Outside Our Realm

By the title of this column, you may think it contains little tidbits about astronomy, the distance from Earth to Mars, or a science fact about your best friend: the Sun. Otherwise known as Big Red Ball in Sky to students majoring in the Humanities. Sorry, Galactic fans, but this column is an exchange column for those students interested in what's happening on other campuses in the United States.

Simon Fraser University, located in Burnaby, B.C. has a special campus for students who are financially embarrassed. Students who cannot afford pens or brush may enroll into a special workshop, called the Painting Workshop, as it is known on the campus, consists of a teacher and an amusing supply of junk. The students take brushes, newspapers, soap caps and various other forms of debris and mold them into art forms. Sort of like doing garbage racing...

Ever heard of a "mobile lounge"? Due to overcrowded facilities, Simon Fraser's campus will include a four-unit mobile trailer as a temporary student lounge. The lounge, which will be called "Boxy," is located in the theatre parking lot.

This would be a nice answer to Highline's cafeteria and lounge overcapacity. But then, of course, the young people would find ways to use it for other things.

Students from Wenatchee Valley College, Yakima Valley College and Highline College may enter a one-act play writing contest. The three winning plays will rotate among the three campuses in April.

Who knows, maybe some Pulitzer Prize material may find its way onto the script of an unsuspecting Elder Washington college student. But, then, of course, the young people would find ways to use it for other things.

An Afro-American society has been formed by black students of Tacoma Community College. The name of the organization is The Old Society. Ooo as the Swahili word for red.

The objective of the Old Society, according to Minister of Information Frederick Love, is to give the black mind a chance to develop with pride in color, heritage and culture.

Seattle Community College recently received a Bell helicopter in exchange for the school's World War II Grumman F4F fighter. The Marine Corps' interest in the plane was stimulated by the fact that the F4F was the only aircraft of its type the corps had at the beginning of World War II.

The new helicopter will be used for training students studying aircraft mechanics. And, if placed in a large enough room, it can be quite effective as a makeshift air-conditioner.

A new forestry technology course will be offered at Wenatchee Valley College. Forestry technicians, are men who fill the gap between the skilled workers and the graduate foresters.

Completion of the recommended two-year program at WVC, which leads to an Associate of Applied Arts Degree, qualifies the student for being hired by logging companies growing in demand, and if they don't watch it, they may find themselves thinner than the trees they're hired to take care of.

The Return of McCarthyism

Eleven years ago Senator Joseph McCarthy took upon himself to save the country from Communism. And it did. Today the nation has developed the habit of forgetting that this time the nation forgot this lesson and has become involved in another McCarthyism. The American and Russian governments believe that for their systems will be self-contained, and that each of them can survive only by destroying the other. McCarthyism is dead in America and in reality the rise of George Wallace, if Nixon tries to revive it, he will destroy his own government.

Conform To Non-Conformity

By M.P.

Now that the registration periods are ending in colleges and universities all over the country, and with record breaking enrollments, we can all look back and expect to see and experience large scale student demonstrations and probably even disrupting campuses all across the nation. The trend today is to conform or non-conform, even if you don't know the reason, as long as you're in there with rows of bludgeons in your shoe and an arsenal of obscenities ready to hurl at any police.

If you're unhappy with our government, go ahead and protest peacefully. Burn American flags, have your voice and demonstration heard, but don't do it the way the kids of that were done. Don't ever think of burning down American flags. It's not as terrible as these poor, innocent Viet Cong and their terrorist killers and torturers are subjected to. We have no right to do this. We are a land of law and order and we should not even attempt to define any idea. The majority of the people who dissent and for those who are unhappy with our government, we have a constitutional right to express our feelings, but don't go too far.

Flag Football Gathers Momentum

Intramural Football Schedule

The following is a schedule of all upcoming, intramural flag-football games:

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 8
Beecher Squad vs. Chiefs

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 10
Beecher Squad vs. Jaguars

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 11
Blue Squad vs. Chiefs

Tuesday, October 8 - Beecher Squad vs. The Clouds
The Clouds scored in the first half and held the Beaters scoreless until the second half. The Beater Squad made a good comeback in the second half making three touchdowns and the additional points. Final score: Beater Squad 21 and The Clouds 6.

Thursday's game was really the deciding one for both teams. It was between the Bombers, the faculty team, and the Scholars. The most amazing thing happened: the Bombers won the contest 14 to 0.

This is an intramural sport and many other intramural activities can be started, just get a team of men or women together and let Mr. Dunn know who you are.

Body Building Part Of Swimming

All sports require a tremendous amount of dedication. This is especially true in swimming. A coach like Milton Orphan Jr. spends hours working on different methods of training. It would be, to say the least, boring for the swimmers if they had the same workout every day. Coach Orphan likes to change practices every day, this makes it more interesting for the boys.

Part of their practice that remains constant is the exercising which lasts from 8 to 10 minutes. Some days they will exercise for 10 or 15 miles and then swim their laps, other days they will work on stroke technique. It is still other days that they practice swimming their laps with the beater Squad, or an Olympic sport and a good warm-up for them. Last but not least, the object of the game is to throw the ball in the goal, which is approximately twice the length of the average goal. During this game you are not allowed to stand on the goal which has two boys and one girl, and with both teams possessing the ball.

When you have the ball anything goes, you can shoot, kick, or just run with the ball. No contact is allowed by the goal post. Two of the ball each third minutes and the third five minutes. This is allowed in between halves but substitutions are allowed during the game.

Practices will pick up in December to a two a day; one in the morning at 8:30 and another in the afternoon at 2:30.

Previously swimming has just been an intramural sport and a semi-final of swimming four plays a day but will play eight to ten miles a day in November. The conclusion of the season they will have swum to be advertised by the end of the season.

Indian Swimming Coach Mrs. Dunn says: "It's not that I'm anti-long hair, there are many others who have short hair are: Richard Sanders, Charles Bouma, Bruce Hendricks, Land Chambers, Rod Dunn, Leonard Groen, Keith Howard, the Don, Ron Johnston, Cary Sanders, and Mike Kueckel.

Swimmers are not allowed to have long hair," coach Orphan said, "it's not that I'm anti-long hair, there are reasons.

The first reason is the responsibility; it makes it in the water. It makes a remarkable one per cent more yards per distance difference. Before important meets team members have a "shave-in" at which each flag football all hair from their body. Long hair also causes too many stroke faults. The last reason is colds can be caught very easily.

The boys that are on the swimming team that must have short hair are: Richard Sanders, Bruce Hendricks, Land Chambers, Rod Dunn, Leonard Groen, Keith Howard, the Don, Ron Johnston, Cary Sanders, and Mike Kueckel. Some others are: Ken Pederson, Don F. Nugent, Bill Ritcham, Chris West, Doug Williams, Don Yeung, Tom Chapman, Craig McGardle, Nathan King, and Richard Chubb. Dale Logsdon is the manager of the swimming team.

Mr. Orphan pointed out that there were two things that they especially protect on a player's feet and hair. As in any sport, weight and diet are important factors that the swimmers must watch. "Swimming is probably the most difficult sport to train for, particularly in the foreign element," said Coach Orphan.

Hiking Club Holds Elections

Hiking club elections were held Tuesday, October 8, with three candidates running for the position of president. Doug Williams, student council representative, and secretary-treasurer, Evelyn Henderson, were not present at the meeting. The club elections were held to fill the position of president, which was vacated by the resigning club officer.

There were three candidates running for the position of president, and added that one individual's policy will be "an active sports program" and the "building of a recreational and social club." The other candidate is Daniel Hovden, who was elected president of the club.

The club meets twice a month during the fall and spring semesters. The meetings are held on the third Tuesday of every month at 12:00 noon, and the meetings are usually held at the center of the campus. The club also sponsors a weekly hike on the third Saturday of every month, starting at 9:00 a.m. and ending at 1:00 p.m.

There are several hiking trails to choose from, including the trails around the city, and the trails in the nearby mountains. The club also sponsors a monthly hike, which is usually held on the second Saturday of every month, starting at 9:00 a.m. and ending at 1:00 p.m.

ALL-AMERICAN — Rod Dam practices the butterfly stroke which last year placed him in the ranks of only twelve other swimmers in the nation who also gained the status of All-American in the butterfly stroke.

Would you like to be an All-American swimmer? Well, here's how Rod Dam, sophomore at Highline College accomplished that goal.

Rod joined a swim team when he was a sophomore in high school. All those times Rod Dam has been referred to as the fast one, but he never really knew why. He knew he was fast, but he couldn't breathe right. He had to keep looking for something. Swimming was something he thought would be fun and it was for Rod. It was harder however because he wasn't extra-talented at that time and had to work twice as hard. Though he was a slow swimmer, he struggled to participate in the swim meets, and it was that which kept him from being discouraged. That year he picked up most improved swimmer.

As a junior and senior he was the captain of the swimming team, and the proud holder of numerous swimming records. He went on to state as a junior and senior which was a major goal at the time. He had received two-all American honors during his junior and senior years.

Mr. Coplen plans to run the activities and athletics in much the same way as in the past. His duties consist of scheduling all sporting events at Highline, setting up rules and regulations for the teams to follow, and attending a state meeting held three times a year in which Community College is represented.

Cross Country

The Highline College cross country team started the 1968-69 season in the Skagit Valley. Highline swept the meet with the number one and number seven of the first eight places. The final score was 187 to 225. The team was up against a strong Seattle team that showed superb strength and determination.
