Helix Wins HCC Court Case

Theda Jones was the plaintiff in the case. She claimed that the college did not compensate her for her work as a part-time employee. The college claimed that she was an independent contractor. The judge ruled in favor of the college, stating that she was an independent contractor.

Colleges Like Factories, Says Stern

"Colleges and factories are like a gigantic factory you go into and you have your learning parks, not at all different from the assembly line," said Stern. "They want you to go in, learn, and then go out."
Corrections

Dear Editor:

There are a few changes that should be made to the story about missing library books in the November 13 issue of the Thunderword. Notably, the lead paragraph stated that a stable percentage of the books checked out of the Highline College Library are never returned. Actually, almost all books are those that are carried out without having been checked and in which instances a book in missing is when one book is missing it is the circulation desk.

Since library books are here to be shared by everyone in the college, stealing the books and keeping them deprives everyone else of their opportunity to use them. Since people usually only want a book just for a few days for some particular information, it is particularly absurd to steal books out and keep them for months or years without letting anyone else use them.

The newspaper story also stated that at the time of the story there were 1,279 missing books. Actually, inventory is not yet closed. Many of the missing books have been returned (but others have been taken). On the basis of past experience we expect a great many of the missing books will be returned before the end of the semester. Since the books taken are usually the ones used most, many people are disappointed.

The suggestion is sometimes made that an infraction be posted at the exit to verify that all books are checked out. This would considerably delay all people leaving. It would add expense for the pay of the inspector, and still would not stop a determined thief. My strong preference is to continue permitting easy exits and rely upon the honesty of all in checking out materials that they wish to borrow from the library.

Sincerely yours,

Justin H. Morris, Ph.D.

The recent rejection of the Student's for a Democratic Society (S.D.S.) organization and the airing of the informant's charges are the most used ones. Since many people are disappointed.

Radical, Maybe! And maybe a little radicalizing is what the average “Go Along” student needs.

Where, but in the activist and extremist (staff or right) are our own new ideas generated?

Can the President Allan and other faculty members are unsure of their ability to accept the challenges these new ideas and goals may bring?

Has become school policy to stifle student vitality, no matter what directions?

Or perhaps only the “cuff”-bearing element?

Can this action (S.D.S.) indicate the acceleration of a program to strip our colleges of their academic and journalistic freedom?

Is there enough left to even worry about?

How can those in positions of leadership feel they ignore their own democratic mandate when the freedoms of assassination and organization and the airing of new ideas?

It's doubtful whether all or even most of the proposals of the S.D.S. would meet our approval or endorsement.
Christmas celebrations in Christian countries all over the world as the Birth of Christ. The name Christmas comes from the term "Christes Mass", which means Christ's Mass. The day usually associated with Christmas is December 25.

The celebration is marked by religious ceremonies such as the sending of greeting cards, the exchange of gifts, and food. The Christmas tree is an important part of the holiday season, and is decorated with lights, ornaments, and gifts. Christmas is celebrated differently in different countries.

In England, this is a season of joy and good cheer, and the Christmas spirit is prevalent throughout the country. The celebration is marked with fireworks, a feast prepared by the men, and the worshiping of the Hindu gods. The Buddhists do not have a traditional Christmas celebration, but they do have a ceremony called "Shu-Matsuri" (a festival of lights), which is held on the first day of the New Year. The festival is determined by the moon phase, and it is celebrated by lighting candles and offering prayers to the Buddha. The festival is accompanied by a feast prepared by the monks, and it is considered to be a significant part of the holiday season.

In India, Christmas is celebrated with a traditional ceremony called "Ganesh Chaturthi", which is celebrated with the worship of the god Ganesha. The festival is celebrated with the lighting of oil lamps and the offering of flowers and sweets. The festival is accompanied by a feast, and it is considered to be a significant part of the holiday season.

Pimpledick And His Great Grand-Dad

By Jon Sier

What's the matter Pimpledick? Are you scared of your own shadow? You look like a fire-cracker hunting for a place to explode. Come over here, and I'll sit down here with your old Grandpa, and we'll be able to talk.

So the boss fired you down at the Bobbit Service Unit and now you're going to be changed and all the rest of that.

Me? No, I'm not the first you ever fired. You see, when I was a boy of twenty-five years ago it was there a woman branch of young folks that felt that way. Some wanted to work in the community and society and not have ANY "Union" or "minutes" or traded and just didn't work out in either case, so they failed to recognize who the boss was.

What is-a "boss" Pimpledick? Let's examine the term.

When you were a small boy you liked the idea of being a "boss." They set limits for you, but you were empowered to be able by them. Not only were you expected to do that, and the importance of this is not the fact that you flailing in a hay fork rather WHY you did. The reason why you did it is that instinctively knew that with your limited experience with facilities you did not have all the answers, and you knew that you needed the guidance of a greater wisdom than you possessed.

Now I'll tell you Pimpledick, there's no such term as "boss." There are supervisors and foremen, and some are "Union" dyed and just didn't work out in either case. You didn't recognize those who were the "bosses.""Some wore green jeans, Red Remmaburg, who at best, looked though he had been run over by a steam shovel. Terry Director, Freshman Class Representative, made an outstanding showing with a total collection of $76.60.

Stan, who is Pop Club Vice President, officially revised his title and crown at the Prom and Thursday ceremony handing his newly-earned title.

Ugly Man Wins In UNICEF Drive

By Nita Perron

Stan Jones is the ugliest man in camp.

That may seem like a nasty thing to say, but it's true. In a fantastic drive led to him on every posterboard on camp he earned his title.

During the period, between November 20th and November 27th, four ugly man candidates hunted the Highline Camps in their quest for funds. Each the handsome, and female county, isn't concerned with you as an individual, but they are trying to make you stand on your own two legs.

The four candidates were: Mr. Robert Neuenschwander as Diana's melancholy father shows unflagging energy and society and the ills of the rich more than made up for the contemptuous toads. The excellent acting, along with the excellent lighting effects, made an exciting stage for the actors. Adrian Sparks playing the roles of Hugo and Frederic, twin brothers, carries the burden of the play. His contrasting portrayals prove she is more than an adequate performer. India, gives along with Mr. Rigg one of the great chances to characterize a woman well.

Food Drive Successful

The Freshman Class of Hightline College sponsored a canned food drive against the student body of Green River College from Monday November 26 to Wednesday November 27.

All collected cans would be distributed by the Bureau of Indian Affairs. Instead of the liner paying for the canned food drive dance, the two colleges will co-sponsor a dance in the winter or spring quarter.

Scores Big Hit

The opening night presentation of Jean Anouilh's "Ring Round The Moon," should go down as one of the brightest events of the Fall quarter. Those who attended Friday night's performance surely were treated to an exceptional display of young acting talent. James Scott, head of law enforcement, reports that they have three cases this year, and are now in the process of investigating a number of thefts on campus.

On the problem of vandalism, he commented, "It's just over here, and it's a cliché. I think this large that we have no little boys, but we really feel kind of good about it." A forty meter is also carried in the patrol car and was used only last year to revive a female student on this campus who was unconscious.

Such things as tape decks, telephones and money have been stolen from automobiles and Scott urges victims of these thefts to report them immediately with both the school authorities and the King County Sheriff. Either the Security office at ext. 23, or Mr. Scott's office, ext. 24, may be contacted.

Campus patrold are on duty 8 and midnight on week days and 3 p.m. to 6 a.m. approximately 60-80 hours of sleeping age.

Other than the police car and campus, the police department has material such as a pool, fingerprinting and microscopic equipment, which is mostly used by law enforcement instruction.

Scott says that one of his biggest problems is the lack of student concern with suspicious activities. He added that he has never received student help in any case.

Among the services of the Highline Community College Police are aiding stranded cars that cannot be started, protecting students on campus late at night, and investigating campus crimes.

Stewardess Program Open To More

By Gladise Lemoli

It’s “Up, Up and Away” for the Airline Stewardess Program recently introduced into the curriculum here at Highline.

This program, begun here this fall, is one of a very few courses offered in the U.S.

In a recent interview, Mr. Richard Gravelle, coordinator of Highline’s Stewardess Program, stressed that the stewardess program is open-end. It can prepare a girl for many different careers.

“The air lines are interested in hiring girls with a good liberal education background coupled with a basic knowledge of air transportation. Therefore our course, which is applicable toward securing an Associate Degree, contains English, the humanities and the Social Sciences as well as the Arts. Emphasis of course is on courses relating to air transportation in its various phases.”

Several of the courses currently taught at Highline have instructors who are directly associated with the air transportation field. Miss Fayre Moss, instructor in Appearance Counseling 239, is employed by United Air Lines as an stewardess appearance consultant and Mr. James Mathieson, a retired United pilot, teaches Air Transportation Marketing and Theory of Flight.

Mr. Gradwohl felt that Highline’s location close to Seattle-Thomas International Airport made it an logical choice for such a program, coupled with the fact that we are located in an air-minded community.

“An air transportation growth and larger planes are predictable for the near future and more trained personnel will be needed. I think Highline’s stewardess program can fill this need very nicely.”

HCC Faculty Member Speaks About Homeland

The highest educated, and most Christian province in India, recently elected a Communist government. This seeming contradiction to the rule, was reported by Charipagami Abraham, Philosophy of Religion instructor in Highline’s evening school.

Mr. Abraham was born and lived for twenty-two years in the state of Kerala, India. Legend holds that after the assassination of Christ, St. Thomas was septupluted to the southern tip of India. There he settled and influenced the state which boasts the highest percentage of Christian people in India.

Mr. Abraham came to the United States after three years of university study in his home country. He completed his bachelor’s degree at William Penn College in Iowa, and went on to advanced study at Austin Theological Seminary in Kentucky. He completed his graduate study in Education and Psychology, at Illinois State University. After teaching for four years at a private school in El Paso, Texas, he returned to take graduate study in History at Texas Western College.

Letter to the Editor

Letter to the Editor:

I have recently read “with mixed emotions” the “Rantings & Ravings” column of December 13, 1964. My mixed emotions included that of concern, sympathy, and humor. My concern is that the students of Highline College be allowed to read the truth, or at least “the other side of the story,” of which, up to now, they seem to have been deprived.

The resignation of Marilyn North and Hal Page from the “Rantings & Ravings” column of the Thunder and find out what it’s all about. I urge you to consider the journalistic qualities of an editor rather than facts.

A check of the voting record of the Executive Board revealed that the six voting members of the Board voted unanimously to reject the request for club recognition of the proposed SDS group. Marilyn North, who had previously resigned, had already expressed her opinion. Try asking her. I can’t think of any two members of the Board who were SDS advocates. Have you checked that? One would further tend to question the journalistic qualities of an editor who writes on assumptions, rather than facts.

I believe that the newspaper can play a key role in the communication between students on this campus, and I urge you to consider both sides of the story, but before you go around “Ranting and Ravings” I suggest you do some checking and find out what it’s all about.

Sincerely,

The first intercollegiate football, has not dampened the spirit of football enthusiasm here at Highline College. Date Robinson, a second-year varsity player, scored the first touchdown of the season against Grays Harbor College.

T-Birds - 81
Pacific - 74

Tuesday the 3rd of December Highline's big boys flew down to Oregon to play one of the top teams in the country. The final score read Highline Community College 81, Pacific College 74. The Thunderbirds' tenacious defense continually piled on Pacific's weight as they moved from the outside to the inside. The only thing which kept Warner Pacific in the game was the excellent ball handling and offensive efforts of Highline. The Thunderbirds were able to respond on the inside to sneak in some points for the win.

The season was a tremendous success for the two teams. Highline finished with a win-loss record of 1-1 and will continue to challenge for the top of the league standings.

The matches are scored by a points system. Each weight class consists of one man who must win all matches to be one of the Thunderbird's top wrestlers.

Thurberids Over Bellevue Helmsmen 5

The coming wrestling season stands to be a very promising one for the Thunderbirds. Under the leadership of Coach Richard Dashiell, the team has been working hard to improve their skills in preparation for the upcoming season.

The Beater Squad finished first in a recent meet and won their playoff match. The Thunderbirds finished second in their league, and returned home victorious. The next match will be against the Canton Pirates for the division title.

The Thundertwbs are the team to beat in the conference this year. They have shown great strength in both their regular and tournament play. The team has been in form since November 1. Wrestlers Take 3 Firsts

Highline's wrestlers took three first place finishes at the Grays Harbor Invitational held last week at Grays Harbor, Cayuseville, Columbia, Olympic, Skagit Valley, University of Washington, State Fair, and the U of Oregon.

There were no team standings given. But if they had been given, Greater Harbor would have been the winner with Highline placing second. The Thunderbirds had more first place finishes than any other school.

Sophomore Jan Kline, wresting at 135 defeated 4 top wrestlers to place second. The Thunderbirds placed third first. Steve defeated all wrestlers at 16? and lost one match and won three.

Greg Lusk, 115 pounds, went into the semifinals but was bumped out when he lost his second match. Greg was two matches and lost two. Harry Petson wrestling at 140 also went into the semi-finals winning two and losing two.

The team looked good at the meet but was disappointed at not participating in the tournament to win first place in the state this year as in 1978. The team will be uplifted when two additional wrestlers join the team. Dave at 141 and Bob at 145 will join the team in the winter quarter. Both these wrestlers are state top contenders.

Meanwhile, In the Boiler Room...
Thankless Jobs Maintain College

By Marilyn Sargent

Who conceived and initiated the registration committee for the college, and who the new staff will report to? This was a question that many were wondering.

"In the office and you'll hear the name of Bob Hughes,
"Schepper," said Mr. Bill Bentz.

"We're not sure yet who our Supervisor of Difficulties and Grants is," added Mr. Fender.

People would provide the name of Mr. Guy Fender, who worked part-time in Central Student Services.

If one year seems short,
think of the number of people who work there and of the task they perform.

"In the Boiler Room, which provides the Boiler Room, which provides the school's electricity."

"In the Office, and you'll hear the name of Mr. Bert

"Our person for the
