The Seattle Times: "Mr. Bray has long been a proponent of the idea that black culture is an essential part of American culture. He attributes the popularity of black culture to the fact that it is related to the cultural heritage of African Americans. Mr. Bray believes that the study of black culture should be an essential part of the American educational system. He thinks that eventually black culture will become an essential part of the American educational system."

Law Enforcement Offers Opportunity

The Highline Community College Law Enforcement Career Program is expanding rapidly, offering many new opportunities for law enforcement minded students. Students are urged to take part in this high enrollment activity. The College offers a two-year occupational program for young men and women who wish to serve their community. The program operates with the necessary flexibility which permits establishing appropriate courses based on the needs of the typical two year pre-service student, but also allows for transfer students and working law officers. The program has been endorsed by the Washington Association of Sheriffs and Police Chiefs and by the Washington Law Enforcement Officers' Training program.

Participating students usually follow a set program which consists of various law enforcement oriented classes along with the required English and Fine Arts courses. Criminal Law, Interviewing, and Criminal Law and Procedure are the courses designed for students attending for the Associate of Applied Science Degree.

The transition of students may also take certain courses. There is the possibility of substitution to Law Enforcement. The program is sponsored by the Police Organization and Administrating each class is a person with a different aspect in law enforcement.

The Highline College Law Enforcement Career Program is an open to all college students, was designed to accommodate a person in a career in the law enforcement area, the association have the opportunity to visit numerous police stations around the area. The College has already visited the Sheriff's Department, Police Department, and other agencies in the area. Contact the College for information about the program.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor,

As a new student, I am very interested in the campus and hope that you can help me with some information. I have noticed that there is a lot of discussion about how the campus looks and how it is changing. I am particularly interested in the new buildings and the renovations that are taking place.

I was wondering if you could provide some information about the new buildings on campus. I am interested in knowing when they are expected to be completed, what the cost has been, and what the new buildings will be used for. Additionally, I would like to know if there are any plans for future renovations or additions to the campus.

Thank you for your time and attention to this matter. I look forward to hearing from you.

Sincerely,

Editor, Thunderword:

Dear Reader,

I am writing to express my concern about the state of the campus grounds. As a student, I feel that it is important for our college to present a clean and well-maintained campus to its students and visitors.

In my opinion, the grounds are in a state of disrepair. The grass is patchy and untended, and the pathways are uneven and slippery. This creates a unsightly and potentially dangerous environment for students.

I believe that the administration should take action to improve the grounds. This could include hiring additional maintenance staff, increasing the budget for grounds maintenance, and implementing a regular maintenance schedule.

I urge the administration to take this issue seriously and take steps to improve the campus grounds. Thank you for your attention to this matter.

Sincerely,

Dear Editor,

I recently read an article about the history of the campus and was struck by the mention of the old softball field. It was such a pioneer for women's sports! It's amazing to think that female athletes had the opportunity to play on such a field. I was wondering if you could provide more information about the history of the softball field and the role it played in the development of women's sports.

Thank you for your time and attention to this matter. I look forward to hearing from you.

Dear Editor,

I am writing to express my concern about the lack of diversity in our school's curriculum. As a student, I feel that it is important for our college to offer a diverse range of courses that reflect the cultural and social diversity of our community.

Unfortunately, many of the courses offered on campus are focused on a narrow range of topics, and there is a lack of representation of minority voices and perspectives. This limits the educational experience for all students and fails to prepare us for a globalized world.

I urge the administration to take action to increase the diversity of our curriculum. This could include offering more courses that explore the experiences of marginalized communities, hiring faculty members from diverse backgrounds, and incorporating diverse perspectives into existing courses.

Thank you for your time and attention to this matter. I look forward to hearing from you.

Sincerely,

Project Survival

The following is a set-up of the "Project Survival" program as it will be structured here at Highline College. This committee's charge is to prepare a program that would be of interest in improving the environment. Those who wish to get on one of these committees should contact Andy Vandenberg in the ASB office.

The "Program" part of these committees is of great importance. Projects and programs need to be organized in order to get people interested. Program activities may vary widely from pledge to pledging. Andy is asking everyone to write letters to the Senator in an attempt to get something done. "Project Survival" will furnish paper, envelopes and stamps. What more could you ask except that, they write the letter for you?

A couple of the more controversial ideas for "Project Survival" are, for example, pledges that students will be asked to sign promising they will not ride diesel buses and that they will not have more than two children. There are also plans for controlled protest demonstrations in this area.

Also there are plans for college club work, free swimming, and the production of films and speeches for the community. Many, many ideas are just in the beginning of the planning and these committees will come about without increased interest and participation in "Project Survival" here at Highline College.

The Highline Thunderbirds finished their 1969-70 basketball season with a winning record, as they fell to both Green River and Olympic Colleges during the year's last weekend.

I'm not sure why they fell to both teams. They won six out of eight games before their last, poor a team as their record stated coach Don Knowles. "Certainly we were disappointed that we didn't make the playoffs as our freshmen came along real well and recruiting is looking real good for next year," stated coach Don Knowles.

The Lights Went Out

Dear Abby,

I'm sorry to bother you, but I need help with my column. I've been writing a political column for the past few years, and I've received some feedback from my readers. They've mentioned that they enjoy my perspective and appreciate your advice on how to improve it.

I've been considering changing the format of my column to include more personal stories and experiences. However, I'm not sure if this is the right direction to take. What do you think?

Yours sincerely,

Dear Buxom

Dear Buxom,

I love your column, but I have a question. Can you explain what you mean by "the best political writer in the country"? I'm curious to know more about your perspective on this.

Sincerely,

Dear Brittany

Dear Brittany,

I appreciate your question. When I refer to the "best political writer in the country," I am speaking about my personal opinion. I believe that political writing requires a unique blend of insight, passion, and skill. It's important to have a clear understanding of the political landscape, but it's also crucial to convey your message in a way that is accessible and engaging to your audience.

I hope this helps. Let me know if you have any other questions.

Sincerely,

Dear Buxom
