Center Seeks Growth For Space And Mind

By Barry Baker

Karen Abbott of the Highline Undersea Center seeks growth for space and mind.

For Space

The Highline Undersea Center seeks growth for space and mind. Karen Abbott, who coordinates the center, explained that the center's goal is to make the students feel that they are part of a community. She said that the center is seeking growth for space and mind by providing services that the students need to be independent. Some students, says Edwards, "We hope that they will be able to do more and more of their own learning."

For Mind

The center also seeks growth for mind. Barry Baker, who writes for the Highline College newspaper, says that the center is seeking growth for mind by providing services that will help the students develop their real capabilities and potential. Some students, says Edwards, "We hope that they will be able to do more and more of their own learning."

please join me and my muscles

As I lay sleeping, muscles last night, I came upon an article about the human body. I'd like to explain an association to the administrators, faculty and I think even secretaries and other workers on campus should be included — to join in the physical fitness every Tuesday and Thursday. Since it is of no importance for all to have the course, regardless of age or previous experience, I think it equally important that you too, should be physically fit.

Now, I thought I was pretty fit! I like to go for long walks, I'm always. We can always park at Maloney but then it takes you fifteen minutes to walk to class. I drive a motorcycle most of the time so parking is no big deal. The newest addition to our college is Dr. Carnahan. Dr. Carnahan is a new improvement. He comes to us upon the retirement of Dr. Allen, who now stations himself in the counseling center, and Dr. Hunt, who is now starting off for bringing the college this far and best wishes to Dr. Carnahan for a successful future.

To all the new students, Highline College can be a great place for all to have the course, regardless of age or previous experience. I think it equally important that you too, should be physically fit!

asterisks for “ed”, buchanan says

The nice lady from the paper said that I get to have my own column in the paper, but that if I swear, she will put asterisks in place of the words. And that’s the truth.

And the column’s called “Thunder-Word”.

Editor, Thunderword, I corrected for a Senior Life Saving class, to be held on Monday and Wednesday nights. It turned out that only four people had registered for the class. We were told that if there were not at least ten enrolled that class would be cancelled. I told the instructor, Mr. Bowen, that I would recruit enough people for the class. By Wednesday night we had twelve friends to talk to the class.

They had had time to speak to the other classes so we all had time to speak to the class. We all had time to speak to the other classes so we all had time to speak to the class. We all had time to speak to the class.

In the last issue of the Thunder-word appeared the letter to the reference in the film series. Although the sentiments expressed were valid, I was disappointed to find the signature “Fred Doble” at the conclusion. After contacting the registrar, the fact was revealed that there is no Fred Doble attending Highline. This is an example of the students in class and the poor administration. Sure the paper is consistent with the facts. By the way, Fred Doble to feel was a crook in an old film script.

All in all, my main concern is that, thunder-word drags u its journalistic obligation and responsibility.

Yours,
Kellogg University

Issue Helped
Dear Reader:
I told you I would put your name in the paper, but that you are not getting the paper, so I would like to help you get the paper. So I am going to be telling you what is happening in my life!

In the last issue of the Thunder-word I helped us go to press.

Donors Are Recognized
Dear Editor,
The Highline College Blood Bank contributed three units of blood to me while I was confined in Swedish Hospital last month with major surgery. This had a monetary value of some amount. I am deeply grateful for the contributions of the Highline College students and students to continue contributing to the Highline Blood Bank. The Bloodmobile visits the campus November 29th and 30th, 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. In the meantime, visit the Blood Bank in Southeast Center or First Hill in Colfax/Elton.

Thanks So Much!

Security Lax On Security

Dear Editor,
Have you heard the latest campus security joke? High time campus security force requires me to park my personal bicycle in the locked bike racks on the bookstore's west side. This is about the seventh time this year our single marked bicycle has been on which to chain and lock bicycles. This year your campus security force has marked by financial fiasco such as outdoor bulletin boards and name plates on which to chain and lock bicycles. This year your campus security force has absolutely marvelous idea! I'd like to extend an invitation to the administrators, faculty and I think even secretaries and other workers on campus should be included — to join in the physical fitness every Tuesday and Thursday. Since it is of no importance for all to have the course, regardless of age or previous experience, I think it equally important that you too, should be physically fit!

Arts Section

Is Praised

Dear Editors,
This letter is to commend you on the excellent arts and entertainment section which appeared in the first edition of the Thunder-word. The film and record reviews I found very stimulating and the classic articles about the Harvard Exit, which was very informative and enjoyable, to say nothing of the film reviews. The coverage of all aspects of arts and entertainment was very complete. I think that the future you will keep up the good work.

a double take on percentages

Congratulations to the student government leaders. The new constitution was passed by a tremendous majority, giving student government a clearly fair percentage, considering the fact that there are nearly 7,000 students enrolled at Highline. This is an important step in making sure student government must certainly have been a factor in the lack of publication of opinion articles criticizing student government about the election. But I’m sure that 70 percent of the students who came to the meeting at all were interested in student government. The next meeting will be held in this issue of The Thunder-word that they are new students.

As elected officials it is your obligation to issue to every voter a brochure about the candidates (as is an article in the first issue of the campaign paper), and to hold an election on the second week of the last month. We are encouraging student government to have bars on which to chain and lock bicycles. This year your campus security force has absolutely marvelous idea! I'd like to extend an invitation to the administrators, faculty and I think even secretaries and other workers on campus should be included — to join in the physical fitness every Tuesday and Thursday. Night beat
So We Begin at Dusk
By Dale Erickson
The atmosphere mellows out after dusk from the earlier bustle of the day students, to a casual exchange of glances and the start of another night at school. Students as well as instructors follow a well beaten path from class to class as the evening sets in.

As you stroll through the campus at night, you may find the lounge, one of the busiest sights during the day, almost empty except for a lone couple standing pool or maybe someone in the corner contemplating tomorrow's changes.

Outside people are bundled up tight, protecting themselves from the bite of a wintery evening.

The night school here, consisting of about 500-torces is headed by Mr. George Dorr, assistant director of Continuing Education. Mr. Dorr stated.

Highline has organized a program for night school at H.C.C., making an opportunity for Highline Community College students. The Ethnic Cultural Center at the University of Washington was initially conceived by a handful of minority students a few years ago as a small area to accommodate the minority students' needs. It has emerged as an attractive physical space set up to provide individual, semi-private, and social goals of the University for students from Indian, Asian American, Black, Chinese, and impoverished white students' needs.

University campuses have traditionally tended to reflect the social mores and values of the nation's greater white majority and, as a result, have ignored the cultures of ethnic groups that have experienced a history of discrimination.

The Ethnic Cultural Center provides minority students at the University of Washington with an opportunity for intensive exploration of their cultural experiences and identity in a physical setting away from the influence of the traditional American culture. Further, the center provides an opportunity for whites to experience an atmosphere dominated by ethnic people and their cultures.

Arrangements are being made for Highline Community College students to participate in programs held at the University of Washington's Ethnic Cultural Center. Announcements as to when arrangements will be final are forthcoming from Mr. Les Fisher, Director of Minority Affairs at Highline Community College.

Bus. Students: Take Note
The Business Department at Highline offers an extensive array of programs for interested students. They include business management, accounting, and networking lab. A sales, marketing, and computer science program is in the concept of continuous programs.

The shorthand and accounting laboratory program is still in the early stage of development. The program is arranged in the study carrels in Tutu, room 509. The purpose is to give students extra practice time by allowing students to work with shorthand and accounting lab. The department plans to have this program available some time this quarter from 3:30 to 7:30 pm.

The Sales and Marketing Program is a two year degree. The sales program is designed to enable students to be employed immediately after graduation. Students will be trained to work in sales and marketing positions.

Ski Club Forecasts
And Plans Given
by Dave Bovey
Four inches to four feet of powder, that's what the Ski Club expects during the Spring break trip to Big Mountain.

Included in the trip this year is lodging, food, transportation by way of train, lift tickets, insurance, entertainment, lodging, and a lot of fun. The price for all this comes to $15.

The Ski Club would like to invite you to their meetings, held each week on Friday at 12:15 in the Payloey Building, Room 154.

Those who attend the meeting will get an idea of this ski trip. Some may obtain part-time jobs through this program. Employers from this area will visit Highline to meet and talk with students.

Set Your Pace In This Course
Highline students interested in obtaining the operation of business machines will be able to register for and complete the Business Machines class at their own pace for variable credit.

Due to continuous enrollment, which means that students work at their own speed to complete the class, openings will be available for interested students at various times during the quarter.

The Registrar's office will maintain a waiting list for each hour that the class is held and new students will be assigned as openings become available. The class is held at 9:30, 11:30, 1:30, 2:30 and 5-7 pm, Wed., Thurs. for night students.

To Spend One Hour With You

by jeff mahas

The Child Care Center is a place where you can spend time playing with children ages five to twenty. By working with children and playing games, you can help them develop their social skills and have fun together.

The director of the Child Care Center, Mr. Jones, explained that the center provides a safe and nurturing environment for children. He encouraged visitors to spend time interacting with the children and engaging in activities such as playing games or reading stories. This not only helps the children learn new skills but also allows visitors to connect with them on a personal level.

Mr. Jones also stressed the importance of maintaining a positive and supportive atmosphere for the children. He highlighted the value of volunteers in creating a positive experience for the children and the community. Volunteers are needed to help with various tasks, such as supervising playtime, assisting with meals, or providing emotional support.

If you are interested in volunteering at the Child Care Center, you can contact the center directly to learn more about the opportunities available. The center welcomes volunteers of all ages and backgrounds who are committed to making a positive impact on the lives of children.

Rules of Road For Your Good

Highline College had the second worst traffic problem in the state. According to Mr. Johnson, the situation has improved 25 percent, but it is not yet under control.

One way to reduce traffic congestion is to carpool. By sharing a ride, you can help reduce the number of cars on the road and improve overall traffic flow. Additionally, carpooling can be an opportunity to meet new people and make new connections.

If you are interested in carpooling, you can contact your instructors or classmates to find out if there are any available rides. Highline College also offers a carpooling program that connects students with rides. This program is available to all students and is a great way to get to and from campus while also helping the environment.

Modernizations In Math Program

by Mike Paulus

Fall is a busy time for many students, and this year is no exception. The Math Department has made several changes to improve the learning experience for students.

One of the most significant changes is the expansion of the Math Learning Center. The center has been renovated to provide a more comfortable and conducive learning environment. The new facilities include additional computer stations, study areas, and tutorial support.

The Math Department has also implemented a new grading system to better reflect student performance. Instead of assigning letter grades, students will now receive a pass/fail grade. This system is designed to encourage students to focus on understanding the material rather than just obtaining a high grade.

In addition to these changes, the Math Department has also made an effort to increase student engagement. Peer tutoring is now available to all students, and the Math Department has also launched a series of workshops and seminars to help students develop problem-solving skills.

These changes are intended to create a more supportive and inclusive learning environment for all students. The Math Department is committed to ensuring that all students have the resources and support they need to succeed in their math courses.

The first issue of the T-Word had as ambitious a theme as the editor on the campus film series. At great pains the writer informed us that beyond the original 800 budget an additional 800 was found. While still not all that the series could be, it was saved by the most valuable program. The art department is to be commended for giving us from their best.

Hubbard Has Dual Role in Athletic Department

by Bob Hansen

"The purpose of physical education is to prepare a person socially as well as physically," stated Mr. Jack Hubbard, Athletic Director and chairman of the Physical Education Department.

"Our program here at Highline," he continued, "is designed to provide a service (such as varsity athletics) as well as activity and instruction for the entire student body."

Mr. Hubbard wears two hats. As an Athletic Director he takes care of all physical education financial matters as well as handling varsity schedules and recruiting and training the head of the Physical Education Department and coaches over the entire physical education and health program.

This year will see a change in alignment of leagues for community colleges. The athletic directors got together last month to form a new association which will include the Washington community colleges and a few community colleges in Oregon. "Mark our calendars," Mr. Hubbard said, "as we are trying to get it all in, the time," said Mr. Hubbard.

Also new, will be a part time executive secretary to run the association instead of a president.

The final innovation is a letter, which reads as follows: "The talent is there but the national champions from debut at Highline. Self-Help Lab Incentive

The Listening Lab

The Listening Lab is housed on the top floor of the library. Students can listen to tapes which are assigned by the instructors. There are ten tapes set up on a new console. Students are able to lease a unit for a quarter or more at a time in the near future. The Listening Lab is directed to helping students who have been out of school for a while. The lab is available to veterans, older students, minority students, or the hand and visual aids. The Listening Lab has a new console which allows students to listen to tapes from different recordings available. Some of the skills that are acceptable include helping students with math and arithmetic. The Listening Lab offers help with math and reading, sometimes in different sections. From 9:00 a.m. to 11:00 a.m., Mrs. Beverly Baum will be there to help with pre-206. From 12:00 p.m. to 12:30 p.m., Miss Renie Heino helps students in English 25, with Mrs. Marg Green. From 2:30 p.m. to 5:00 p.m., Miss Helen Peters is in charge of the operation. There are still openings in the Monday evening class and individual techniques in this lab. The hours for the Language Listening Lab are from 1:00 p.m. to 6:00 p.m., from Monday through Thursday. Anyone interested is encouraged to enter.
