Students want cash, free phones

By Kirk Elliott

Students would like to see both cash and free phones added to the lists of services they can receive at the Health Care Center, which is open on a limited basis this spring.

The Health Care Center accepts cash (16.2 percent); and local mail (10 percent). Coverage of Eating Area and study calls (17.5 percent); a drte soon. The meeting will be made about the aging fac-

Privatization of the health center is coming and so is another service for students. The health center will offer a 'package' of services to accommodate patients, we have been told.
Involvement is student director’s goal

By Jenny Hogon

Highline students to be more involved on campus.

“The more students get involved they are more likely to stay in school,” Anderson said. “Involvement is student director’s goal to learning.”

Anderson now is in her second quarter as director of Student Programs. She says students get involved the better grades they get and the better job was a promotion over her last one.

She is a competitive person and would like to see more competition between nearby community colleges. But it’s the students who matter to her the most.

Eleven framed portraits of Anderson and students she has worked with hang on the wall in her office, 10 from Green River and the last recently taken photo of her first group from Highline.

“I always want to remember everyone I have worked with,” Anderson said. “I have talked with other faculty and they don’t remember students they have worked with. I will always ask them, ‘How could you not remember who you have worked with?’”

Anderson currently is heading efforts to red develop the Student Center in Building B.

“This is a place where we provide recreational, educational, and social programs for the student body,” Anderson said. “We should be having something going on every day and the building is not big enough to facilitate the student body.”

Anderson said that the Student Center was built to serve 2,000 people; Highline’s population now is about 9,000.

Anderson said the college needs to take a close look at improvements facilities, services, and programs that could be offered.

She would like to develop leadership opportunities for students who aren’t directly involved in student government, and provide training for club presidents. She would also like to have a club fair at the beginning of the year to show students what Highline has to offer.

Follow foot steps to future

Every Wednesday in February in Building 7 from noon-1 p.m. there will be a “Footsteps” speaker.

“Footsteps” is a program, sponsored by the Events Board, that invites leaders from the community to speak to students about how they got there.

The first speaker is Richelle Bush-Malone, M.Ed. She will be speaking Feb. 5. Bush-Malone is an educator and co-founder of the Seattle Public School District’s African-American Academy.

Student council meeting today

There will be a student council meeting today in the library. The meeting will be held in the Board Room, on floor 5 at 2 p.m.

The meeting will feature announcements of upcoming activities from many of the clubs on campus.

Wills, estates seminars offered

Attorney Laurel McDougall, who specializes in wills, asset protection, and estate settlement, will be holding two seminars at Highline. The seminars are being sponsored by the Highline Community College Foundation.

The seminars will be held at Highline Senior Center (1210 SW 136, Burien) from 6:30 to 8:30 on Feb. 12 and 13.

There is a $15 fee. For information or to register with Visa or Mastercard call 870-3774.

Talent search looking at HCC

The all-campus talent search will be held Feb. 11 and 14 from noon-2 p.m. and Feb. 13 from 6-8 p.m.

Registration forms will be available starting the first week of Feb. The deadline for entries is Feb. 10.

The talent search is being sponsored by the Events Board.

“We are looking for any kind of talent you can do,” Literature and Fine Arts Chairperson Sara Moulton said.

Boredom to be cured by activities

By Jenny Hogon

If you think Highline is boring, perhaps you haven’t looked very hard. If you do go to class, study and leave, day after day, your mind will turn to cheese. But the college does offer a lot of other opportunities for getting and leading a more active lifestyle and having some fun, from athletics to student government.

The Associated Students of Highline Community College, among a host of other groups, has made sure that the experience would “train me and give me skills that I will use in the future,” such as scheduling, organization skills, and meeting facilitation — not to mention that it looks really good on a resume.

The ASHCC is open to all students, see them in Building B for more information.

“A lot of people would not go to college if it was not for athletics,” says Athletic Director Fred Harrison. Sports offered here include map’s only women’s basketball, men’s soccer, women’s volleyball, women’s softball, wrestling, and men’s track and field and cross country.

Intramural sports include flag football and volleyball in the fall, and 5-on-5 basketball. Spring quarter will feature 3-on-3 basketball and a decathlon. The fall and spring quaters will be held.

Employment opportunities are available as well, some paid, some volunteer. For more information, visit Student Services in Building B.

Highline currently has more than 20 active, recognized clubs on campus, including the United Chicano-Latino Association, Data Processing Management Association, Gay-Lesbian-Bisexual and Friends, Islamic Club, Kappa Alpha Psi Sorority, Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority, Delta Sigma Theta Sorority, Theta Kappa, National Student Nurses Association, Baptist Student Ministries—Christian Fellowship, The Thunderword, College Republicans, Martial Arts Club, Real Life at Highline, Choirs, Hightline Young Student Association, Phi Theta Kappa, Student Union, International Club, Native American Student Organization, The Compassionists Friends, and Hightline Jewelry Club.

Highline wrestlers down, but not out

By Kirk Elliott
Staff Reporter

With five wrestlers out of the lineup, the Thunderbirds fell short against PLU, 23-17, last Friday.

The T-birds got outstanding performances by Eric Sieredd with a pin at 155 pounds, Brian Longa, 167 pounds, who competed despite separated ribs; and Jess Pulver, 142 pounds, with a 21-5 technical fall in the third round. Ken Koby also scored a win at 190 pounds.

The next day in Ellensburg at the Central Washington University Open, Highline again had six key wrestlers out. As a result, the T-birds took only one match the whole day, a second place finish by Brian Scalabrino at 182 pounds.

HCC men's hoops 19-0 and rolling

With the biggest crowd of the year hand, the Thunderbirds improved their league record to 6-0, and 19-0 overall by beating Shoreline Saturday (58-61).

Brian Scalabrino led the way for the T-Birds. The 6'9" center finished with 22 points on 8 of 12 shooting from the field, and also hauled down a team high 13 rebounds.

Quinsey Wiler added 17 points, while Brandon Nash grabbed nine rebounds, eight of those defensive.

J.J. Ivy, Derek Johnson, and Moore all played key roles coming off the bench. Ivy, who finished with 10 points, hit a key three pointer late in the game to put Highline up by seven virtually seal the victory.

Johnson, in limited action, grabbed two rebounds and had a crucial blocked shot. Moore did a good job filling at point guard for Reggie Ball, who turned an ankle during the game.

On Wednesday, Jan. 22 Highline easily handled Bellevue (80-61). Brian Scalabrino led all scorers with 18 points.

Lady T-Birds nip Shoreline

By Neil Doherty
Staff Reporter

The Highline women's basketball team split their two games last week against Bellevue and Shoreline.

Against the Lady Vikings, Highline got crushed on the boards and fall, 80-62.

The Lady Thunderbirds then rebounded by beating the Shoreline Dolphins, 66-59.

The keys to this game included domination on the boards and a stellar performance by point guard Vicky Wason.

The game was dictated from the start by the Thunderbirds and even though it remained close most of the game the end result was a win for the 'birds.

The women were back in action last night against the Skagit Valley Cardinals, but scores were not available at press time. This Saturday the visit Edmonds.

Round win by Matt Walters at 134 pounds.

Highline's Jonsee Cristano started his physical therapy Monday, with knee surgery last Thursday. The 118-pounder said he should be able to wrestle at regionals, which are in three weeks. "I have a good chance of being an All American, if my knee holds out," Cristano said.

"Right now we've got to get everybody healthy and in the room for practice," said Assistant Coach Jason Boshart. "You can't win matches if you don't have a team."

Highline hosts Yelm High School College 1 p.m. Saturday at the Pavilion. After that, the T-Bird wrestlers will have plenty of time to rest for Regionals in Oregon City Saturday, Feb. 15.

HCC track team gets off to fast start

Wes Young broke the 30 year record in the high jump by 4" at the indoor track meet hosted by the University of Washington on Jan. 20. He jumped 6'8 3/4" to win the invitational beating the opponent who won the high school state finals last year leaving him in the runner up position.

HCC ran in the indoor track meet to practice for the outdoor season.

The indoor track is half the size of the outdoor track and the surface is harder making times slower but didn't stop Demone Taylor from setting the freshman record in the 55m hurdles by running a 7.73. He placed 3rd in the event.

The mile relay consisting of Ryan Yousman, Jake Dill, Shelby Buchanan, and Todd Girtz placed 3rd. They will compete in Idaho next.

Lead runner Yousman along with Weth Edgecomb ran to the consolation finals in the 55m sprint. Jake Dill ran the open 400 in 52.2 to steal 5th place.

Literary magazine accepting submissions

By Milo Cumby

Arts, Highline Community College's annual literary magazine, is accepting submissions through Feb. 14. Submissions are invited for poetry, fiction, nonfiction, and reproductions now through Feb. 14. Students, faculty, and staff are invited to submit their works. The editors welcome all manuscripts and photographs. After receiving your literary masterpiece, it is given to the Writing 100 classes for examination. Those students will then pick their favorite pieces and present them. The selected submissions are then bound in a portfolio named "The Last Laugh in Seattle." Your winning piece can be pulled into the portfolio. For more information, contact Dana Kosten at (206) 760-4027.

Comedy Cafe to return again

By Jordan Gilmore

The Comedy Cafe brought down the house again when 1228 excited people took pleasure in the unique antics of Michael Mancini, Comedy Cafe alumnus and now a professional comedy performer in various U.S. cities and as the host on Comedy West. The Events Committee has placed an ad in The Comet and in The Vanguard. The event is a benefit for the students. "It's your magazine; submit your ideas," said Sharon Hashimoto. The winners are announced on the page.

Fat Tuesday celebration next Friday

By Marc Wada

Highline will get a taste of New Orleans with Mardi Gras Creole Dinner on Friday, Feb. 7. 7-11 p.m. in the Student Center.

Sponsored by the HCC Student Board, the event will feature cabaret, mask and costume, music and giveaways. The menu will be provided by KUBE radio disc jockey Duane Goed, who is known for his smooth style and ability to entertain the audience. The menu will be a Louisiana Creole, and will include dishes such as jambalaya, gumbo, and beignets. The event will be a fun-filled evening highlighted by live music and prizes.
